

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Need experienced hackers/social engineers to answer a few questions

Alrapstv1 Jejsaa - September 3, 2019, 11:09 am so, I've seen a lot of sites like EpicNPC, and playerUP, and fame swap and a few other sites where these people have a list of YouTube accounts that they are selling, most of them being Russian, obviously the accounts were just hacked and used for selling purposes, but I want to know where are they getting these accounts at, if they're selling them in mass numbers for $599 plus, they must be getting their accounts in wholesale for a cheaper price, but where? I've been thinking maybe they have a good supplier but who, and how would anyone get in contact with such a person. Also thinking maybe there's a fkn pastebin that just gets filled with random accounts and they maybe search through the emails and passwords until they get lucky or ? If you guys know any thing that could help please give me some info, I'm currently deployed in Afghanistan and really have nothing better to do but kinda dabble in this subject, mainly because it's intriguing and a bit secretive, but also a possible money maker, and i would definitely love to expand my knowledge in this subject and become a supplier instead of the buyer. If you know of any paste bin links or any sources that are legit let me know on here, or at me email michaleweers360@gmail dot com