

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: my friend lives a lone and he says he cant get cable internet cuz he rents

dragonHarem - September 15, 2019, 4:38 am

ofc i wanna rent too i cant stand my parents lel but.. i need fast internet.. like 100mb/s so..

if i rent i cant get cable?

i must hav internet

if i rent a flat i am still owner's dog?

TheChaosKiller - September 15, 2019, 5:22 am

I'm not sure that's always the case, I can't imagine in this day and age that they can prevent you from getting internet access..

Takehito Morokuzu - September 15, 2019, 5:47 am

Maybe wait until 5g comes out, then use hotspot from your phone and you can get several hundred megabits.

Linux X - September 15, 2019, 5:48 am

You can get but be careful with the contract with the company.

Vyrkfrir - September 15, 2019, 8:09 am

I live in a rental, and upgraded from copper to the dreaded FTTN that NBN in Australia has rolled out.

But there were no obstacles for me.

BTC - September 15, 2019, 8:12 am

Just rent a place with internet, check for DSL, cable, or fiber optic.

Simple as that

passCODE - September 15, 2019, 8:14 am

It all depends on your owner, sometimes they can be some retards that don't want to change anything around the house. In my case, they let me add new internet (change the infrastructure), they let me paint the walls, whatever I want as long as it's something normal.

Don't rent a place if you see that the owner is some psycho, simple as that. And about getting internet, you can take it on a contract or without a contract, I'm using it without contract so it's a little bit more expensive, but I can stop using it/paying for it whenever I want.

dragonHarem - September 15, 2019, 9:49 am

(Sep 15, 2019 08:14 AM)pass. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It all depends on your owner, sometimes they can be some retards that don't want to change anything around the house. In my case, they let me add new internet (change the infrastructure), they let me paint the walls, whatever I want as long as it's something normal.

Don't rent a place if you see that the owner is some psycho, simple as that. And about getting internet, you can take it on a contract or without a contract, I'm using it without contract so it's a little bit more expensive, but I can stop using it/paying for it whenever I want.

but if you are using it without contract he can send some huge tribemen in the night with copy of keys to bangbang you , beat you, steal your stuff, etc, or in fact he can just change your door keys when youre not there and pretend you didnt live there andyou lose all stuff!

passCODE - September 15, 2019, 9:52 am

(Sep 15, 2019 09:49 AM)dragonHarem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) but if you are using it without contract he can send some huge tribemen in the night with copy of keys to bangbang you , beat you, steal your stuff, etc, or in fact he can just change your door keys when youre not there and pretend you didnt live there andyou lose all stuff!

I don't understand what's your point here and what's your concern. That can happen anywhere anytime, maybe just don't rent then and save yourself from these problems. I never heard something like that happened to anyone close to me but I know it happens sometimes.

Before you rent a place, you'll be able to visit it and talk to the owner, it's your duty to see whether the owner is normal or not, if he/she is a retard, just say you're not interested and never come back.

Rigel - September 15, 2019, 10:18 am

When you rent, you can do virtually anything you want for yourself? Like you have to be entertained somehow...

Ivex - September 15, 2019, 5:37 pm

Just rent somewhere with cable.

I've started renting a new place and we have fibre optic I believe.

Moxxi - September 15, 2019, 5:40 pm

I dont understand

Whatever place you rent should have internet already installed or at least the options for whatever providers service that address and you can choose to use their service or not. Would make no sense for a property to just not have internet unless you live in the middle of nowhere or something.

personally fiber internet is a requirement for me when I look for a house or apartment

Crimin4L - September 15, 2019, 5:54 pm

How could they stop you from using the internet or having cable. What does the landlord expect ya to do? Stare at walls?