Thread: Being treated like garbage by a seller

Crowley - September 15, 2019, 6:27 pm

So right now I decided to accept a contract which I 100% wish to complete, but the seller is being pretty rude.

I told them that yea I will buy the $100 AGC card from them. I redemmed the codes and it's taking a while for order to be processed. Normally it takes a few seconds to get the online code from Amazon.

I did redeem the cards which were $50 each. I placed an order for which I needed because it is for school.

The order is a online digital code. I am waiting for it to process and I tried to contact customer service but they told me it could take at least 4 hours or less.

I am currently waiting on the order and the user is threatening to open a dispute against me????

I am being super nice and calm about it, but they are being super rude toward me.

I am not going to scam him and I told him the BTC would be there when he wakes up if he were to fall asleep by the time I get the order.

I just don't want the card to be bounced back if I do send the cash and him rushing me to send the cash is getting me super nervous.

What should I do? I don't want a dispute against me what so ever because I am not a scammer by any means nor' do I plan to scam ever!

Screenshots can be provided if needed. I also added a staff member to the chat conversation so that he/she can take a look.

EDIT:

OP opened dispute against me.... I haven't blocked, ignored, or anything to him. Like I have been super communicative and he is not understanding.

Well yea he is selling me AGC and I will be paying him in BTC. I am trying to make sure that he knows I have no intentions of scamming and I am including a staff member to supervise everything. Like I am trying super hard not to be a dick back because I don't want a open dispute against me.

LaFerrari - September 15, 2019, 6:32 pm

He's just worried you aren't planning to pay or needed the $ asap. Don't worry about a dispute as long as you're planning to pay

I plan to pay 1000% man. He is being super anxious and I get he's cranky. I linked him to this post.
I don't plan to scam him or anyone on this site. Scamming is legit the worst and it I really really hate scammers.

RoadTo2ndBrick - September 15, 2019, 6:35 pm

I'm not scared of not being paid.

I am not agreeing to his terms which he HAD to tell me before we dealt.
Would never have dealt with him as I knew he wanted to wait out. 5min more waiting and i couldve sold someone else.

about to open this dispute if OP not sending btc in 5mins.

Well for one my account is literally just me paying with my card and nothing else. I have bought AGCs before and no problems what so ever.

I have never been flagged on Amazon or anything for fraud or bounce backs. It's just weird that it is taking super long for this to process. This has never happened to me before.

I do plan to pay 1001% man. I am even contacting amazon customer chat and they are telling me the order is pending and I am still waiting for the code for my course required code for my classes.

You should've paid before ordering your bullshit school stuff kid.

That you're only answering / adresssing 1 of my issues with you tells me enough

Dude I legit just got scammed of $99. For you that may not be a lot but for me that's a shit fucking ton of cash.

Sorry not all of us are as rich as you are?

I don't understand why you're being such a dick to me if I am legit petrified of being scammed.

Don't deal then if you'll make your own rules, its action -> response and I don't sit down for someone trying to go out his own way while negatively influencing me.... ?

Lmao did you buy AGC from the user or an amazon order from the user?

He sold you AGC which you already redeemed, how can you make him wait for your amazon order to process for hours LOOOL

Well no I redeemed it and normally all orders I do that are digital I get the code almost instantly. Just this time it's acting up and I am trying to tell him.

I have never experienced this before so I don't know what is happening.

you dont get that you dont even have to look at an order or let along place one??? When you buy my agc you buy the code, the rest what you do is your fucking buseniss not our deal

Pyro - September 15, 2019, 6:55 pm

Lemme get this straight

U bought AGC from him, redeemed it on your account, then ordered something else from your account, but that transaction didnt went trough yet, and u don't wanna send him BTC ?

Is this really happening ?

Well this hasn't ever happened to me before normally all digital codes arrive instantly.
I am scared that the AGC will bounce back.

Dude he is litteraly making me pay for his own amazon risks and whatever comes about.
I am low ranked on HF but i know damn well with my 4 year experience (other sites to) that this is unacceptable

Your Amazon, your problem

pay the guy what u owe him

if they bounce back, open dispute

YOU can be scared, then stash all your money cash at home.
I AM NOT SCARED and i SHOULDNT wait for what you want, side note : he didnt even tell me anywhere untill 30min after codes redeemed that he wanted to wait out an order and had me waiting

Vitaly - September 15, 2019, 6:59 pm

He sold you gift cards... you redeemed them perfectly fine as you said so why are you holding his money until YOUR order is placed? which wasn't in the deal. Send him his money lmao

Is anybody trying to put some time aside to understand what's going on? He bought some AGC, and to confirm that the balance was not obtained through fraudulent means Crowley is waiting to see if it confirms or not.

so what?

as my product is SOLD i should be PAID. Moral of this dispute. The rest are side notes. and as OP is sounding he knew what he was doing yet didnt put it in contract or dared to tell me (Sep 15, 2019 07:02 PM)Chief Bromden Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He doesnt want it to bounce back, did you even read the thread?

The main thing that scares me is it bouncing back.

Everyone keeps saying to pay him. I will, but if it bounces back and I open a dispute. Disputes that are opened won't get my money back at all.

I understand I redeemed it, I placed an order which normally I get it all instantly but this time it's an issue.

I created a new amazon account and I paid the remainder amount of the order with m credit card, but I don't understand why it is taking this long for the order to process.

I am scared of it bouncing back even if the seller says he will give a refund. Anyone can say that and not refund me.

I cannot afford to be scammed again and no one understands this.

Yeah I did, 2 times, and I still dont get it... Codes were fine when he redeemed it as OP even said

You waiting for it to process literally means nothing, you can have orders processed and then get cancelled later, sounds like your doing what you want and not what you both agreed to do.

Im the seller and that OP puts (advice needed) tells me enough about his market experiences and my right feeling of opening the dispute as 1on1 talking wont get trough to this young kid's head. You should just pay me when you use the code, you basically baited me in to something fishy and thats where you went wrong. Btc has to be sent as code used. If wanting to do different you mark that in the contract.

exactly why i have been losing my mind for 1 hr long.. and i have 0 power, yet in convo he kept telling me i was wrong here for wanting my btc let me go to the supermarket and buy a banana and eat it, without paying. If the banana is shitted out ill pay for it.

gonna try this one tmrw, learned from crowley

335i - September 15, 2019, 7:22 pm

@OP, this guy has a higher b rating than you.

I think you should just pay the guy. I've had digital orders that take 24 hours to send. It's not uncommon.

I'd be pissed too if I was in the sellers position. Go look at his feedback, I don't think he's gonna scam you.. either way, this is how ALL AGC deals work. Once you redeem the card, you send the btc. Period.

Crowley - September 15, 2019, 7:40 pm

Hey everyone I sent the BTC to the seller.

I understand everyone thinks you bought the code, but what if you purchased the code and it bounces back?

You lost your cash and you got scammed. It's not right at all paying for a code that bounces back.

I am closing thread now.

Eagle 95 - September 16, 2019, 5:18 am

This thread was completely useless pit of drama... You could have solved it between you two...
