Thread: Your favourite breed of dog?

TheChaosKiller - September 19, 2019, 3:07 am

I'm going to get a Husky soon, or failing that a Golden Retriever, as those are my two favourite breeds. What do you guys have, or prefer?

Krepto - September 19, 2019, 3:47 am

I've had a Jack Russel and a Bullmastiff, massive size difference between them!

My favourite breed of dog though is probably a dachshund! Cute little sausages.

I used to have a Jack Russel as a kid, he was a scrappy little dude. Always used to wake me up super early though which annoyed me!

N - September 19, 2019, 3:55 am

I like German Shepherds or Dobermann's - actually looking into picking up a GS pup soon.

Yeah I grew up with my Jack Russel until he unfortunately died! Wasn't one of the craziest ones I've seen, he would still give you the biggest greeting walking through the front door though haha!

Same! Haha yeah ours was very affectionate, but he hated one of our neighbours and would go crazy if he ever saw him.

Then when we got our bullmastiff he was so protective, like if you'd walk him to the shop or something he'd be next to you at all times. It was great!

I love how dogs will do that, just protective and caring from the jump. I can't wait to do that all over again!

Prawnster - September 19, 2019, 4:12 am

I love rottweilers, they are such great dogs and I've had two of them so far.

I want to get more now that they are gone, but just need some time haha

I don't think I'll get another dog for a while. It's too heartbreaking when they die/get put down.

What dog you thinking of getting next man?

haksxsx - September 19, 2019, 4:54 am

Same as you man, i like them, you should go with husky though.

they are more active than Golden retriever

Siberian Husky and Alaskan Malamute.

Both the breeds are closest to wolf and look dope.

Back in the day I would have said German Shepherd without a second thought, but these days I'd have to choose carefully between German Shepherd, and Border Collie.
I come from a farming family so a good border collie has always been in the family, and German shepherds are just gorgeous dogs.

Unfortunately I work 10 hours a day away from home and only live in a unit, so don't have the space for a dog. It would be cruel. My ex used to have a collie that lived here and it was just cruel leaving her on that tiny backyard all day.
It sucks, but it's a roof over my head for the last 4 years. Got an awesome landlord so rather no pets rather than fuckaround.

She already was mad about my little kitty cat I brought home xD

That's strange because I surprised my mum with a little kitten too haha! British Blue, called her Storm!

If I didn't have my dog already (German short haired pointer) then I would definitely be going for a Husky. They are so beautiful and just over all a great dog. The only downside is they shed A LOT! ? I want a husky. Huskies are great.

A husky, a German shepherd, border collie and a shib.

At the moment, I really want a french bulldog. My wife has a yorkie right now, and he's cool, but I think I might go get a frenchie soon.

Lindros - September 22, 2019, 2:49 pm

I really want an arctic husky. One day I think I'll get one, just travel too much at the moment to maintain a dog sadly ;(.

cryp - September 22, 2019, 4:29 pm

I've never had a thing for German Shepards, they're cool but I would go for a Siberian Husky personally.

How much are they to buy roughly?

Katyuska - September 24, 2019, 3:43 pm

I prefer medium-sized mutts or mixed breeds. They are usually healthier and can have the best traits of both breeds with less chance of passing bad genes. Saying that I have a thing for french bulldogs and some breeds of mastiffs.
