Thread: Any methods to transfer an amazon balance to someone

R?venge - September 23, 2019, 11:57 am

I have $100 in my US balance but it isn't allowing me to buy any digital products for some reason (i'm in UK) even though I've bought in the past using a US address no issues.

Would be nice to know if there is anything I can do with my balance.

Not sure about transferring balance, but you could always buy something for someone off their wishlist

Get Amazon Prime, it should work

Omniscient - September 23, 2019, 12:28 pm

Buy me something from my wishlist. If it shows up I'll give you 75% BTC.

I have the same problem with Amazon France.

I have €600 sitting on my account. :(

If anyone would like to make some kind of deal.

You can send prime gifts to people and they can redeem them as gift card balance instead of prime time:

https://www.amazon.com/gp/prime/pipeline/prime_gifting_landing?tag=multimedia1-20

Plenty of prime gift buyers in CE, check it out.

Or buy something off of Omni's wishlist.

You sure you can buy gift card with gift card balance? I tried and you need to buy it with a credit card.

I ended up buying google play with my $100 gift card balance so it does work.

For some reason all gaming stuff is locked for me, can't buy Xbox/psn stuff but I can buy iTunes and google play, weird...

Oh you mean other gift card (not Amazon Gift Card).

So yeah, this way I can buy cards, I guess i will do that to spend my balance. :)

You can change locations in your amazon account and access the kindle & audible store of different countries. That is how I made use of my australian balance.

Where can we find this wishlist?

Yes, you can transfer balance to other accounts, there are 2 methods for this:

1. You can buy a prime gift for someone, after they receive the email from Amazon with their Prime gift, there's something along the lines of "Already a Prime member? Click here to exchange for an Amazon giftcard"

2. Kindle eBooks. Go to <https://www.jungle-search.com/kindle> and put the your giftcard balance in the minimum and maximum price. If it's a really odd number just round it down. Afterwards pick an eBook and click on "Give as a gift", then put in the email of the receiver, or your own email if you want to forward it later and buy it. When you get the email with instructions on how to get the eBook, click on the link and there should be a small text with something like "Learn how to exchange this eBook for a giftcard", just click on it and then click on "Request a giftcard from customer service". You'll get it exchanged for Amazon giftcard balance within an hour usually.

You can also just use Purse.io for it and get BTC for your balance, alot of orders there give a higher rate than on HF.

I know I'm late, but:

Quote:The gift of Prime can only be redeemed on Amazon.com.
