What do you think about that? All we have is bs talks and theories based on some cgi made by some scientist who guess and imagine things

Pawnhub - September 27, 2019, 11:40 am

So you don't believe in space?

There is space, but i think it is different than what nasa is telling, if u research a little bit ull find out that almost everything they say is theories or fake as moon landing

If you think the moon landing is fake in worried for you.

You realise things like gravity is a theory, or things like the theory of relativity.

Theory of relativity doesnt have nothing in common with with modern day theories.

Research moon landing fake

The term "theory" in relation to a scientific theory, does not have the same definition as the word theory that you're used to. The equivalent to the word theory that you're thinking of is "hypothesis".

A theory in scientific terms is an explained aspect of the word that is backed up by evidence and repeatable results, a hypothesis is a "best guess".

So really, theory != theory.

The moon landing could of very well been faked.

Theres a lot of information regarding this and there is also a lot of sketchy stuff that revolves around all of this. Im not saying its 100% true but if you look into it theirs some weird stuff. I am actually writing a ebook that talks about this. It could be real it could be fake. The moon landing could be real but the images we have of it could be fake.

One rumor is that all the footage was taken before they even did the moon landing. Like they all ready knew what they wanted the media to see. Who knows tho its more interesting then anything.

But WHY fake it? We know full well we're capable of landing on the moon. The fuck is the point in risking people finding out?

From my understand "what people believe" is that they didn't know for quite sure how it was going to go with the first run.

We were literally competing with Russia "to see who is better and who can get there first"

Also this was broadcasted live in 1969's which is kind of strange itself. Just thinking that we sent the footage from the moon back to USA in 1969 that's wild! And Bill Kaysing worked for NASA right before this launch he was with NASA from 1957 - 1963 HE claims that all moon landings from 1969 - 1972 were faked and that we didn't have the technology at the time. He also claims NASA killed all the Apollo 1 astronauts to keep them quiet.

I'm not saying it's true but I could believe it as possible. This is the kind of stuff that really interests me it's been awhile so I can't remember every thing exactly but there is a lot of people who believe this and don't sound too crazy when you look at it with an open mind set.

I legit put my computer down and have been doing research like this for the past few years not with just the moon but all conspiracies in general. And it's in HISTORY the government has lied to us in the past. What stops them from lying now?

I honestly believe 100 years from now there will be a lot of information regarding a lot of things they have hid / kept or lied to us.

Not going to go into everything cause I'm getting off subject. But I believe we made it to the moon but after I personally looked into the footage

I got to say it is very strange.

If you are interested check out this youtube channel bro feel free to pm me your thoughts or even discuss them here. This is one of my favorite youtube channels they don't go saying it's fake or not but rather gather a bunch of information.

This has been a rumor for A LONG TIME and Buzzfeed actually made a whole studio and tried to recreate the moon landing in a studio. They did it successfully that's not proof but however it does show it's possible. Even some of our own current astronauts have commented on the footage from the first moon landing saying that to them it even looks strange how they were moving. Also you can see reflections above the people at some times almost like they are being lifted by a rope or something. Also a lot of scientists believe we actually never been there. I'm not trying to make you guys think I am crazy but I honestly believe with all my heart it's very possible anything is possible isn't it?

Exactly.

Except a hypothesis technically isn't a best guess per se. Best guess at least to me implies YOUR best guess, your own personal guess. It's more like the opposite of your best guess because the aim is to prove yourself wrong, and the best way to do that is to try and prove the other alternate hypothesis is true (or that yours is wrong).

I mean research about the moon landing goes both ways.

You will find a lot of stuff questioning the moon landing sure, but search for real scientific answers for that and you will find real evidence that debunks it.

You just need to research correctly
