Thread: Who's posting blogs?

Spaark - October 5, 2019, 8:45 pm

Hey HF,

Just finished up my first blog post, it's waiting for approval at the moment. I really like the format thats been given the approval so far, which is; HQ informative posts about a wide range of topics.

Personally I wish it was a feature more openly displayed on the site. I understand that it's only currently in a beta phase, but damn... there's some pretty good reads from users whom I've never even heard of.

If you've posted something, shoot us a link below. Lets bring the good content to the front page of HF and appreciate the good work thats been done!

I wonder if I'm allowed to pay people to write blogs for me that will get approved.

I just want the golden content award tbh.

I may take some time to write 5 blogs, but idk what I will write about kappa

I'm sorta committed to making at least 5 before I take my temporary leave from the site, the award would be a nice way to end things.

And as for paying other people, I guess? Idk how that'd ever be proven. PM me for my btc addy.

I'm considering writing up a feedback thread, but it's early days and I'm sure Omni and Xerotic have plans for the feature that they haven't released yet. So I think its wise we sit tight and see what happens.

duck - October 6, 2019, 7:54 am

Last blog was posted 25.09, hope you soon get approved.

But I would like to see a new addition, that if you are denied, it'll give you an alert, not sure if it's already here or not, I don't think so.

Natas - October 6, 2019, 7:57 am

I made two blogs one about the Mandela effect "A topic I love and I love to discuss about"

And one about how I almost died by shocking my self with a electrical out let.

I think they both got disproved but im gonna keep on trying its probley because of my grammar.

Next one I make I will use a grammar check and see where it goes lol.

Fortunate - October 6, 2019, 8:10 am

I already have written 5 approved blog posts and I'm looking to write more as soon as I get this lounge head award. One step at a time.

For the love of OCD please buy another award along with the Golden Content before you take your leave.

One full row and an almost second, or two full rows. You decide on how you want to make your exit.

I have no idea what to write, could write some tutorials on how to stay safe in the HF marketplace or how to make a little bit of money online but meh 5 blogs is too much for me for the award. :(

I'm starting a series about Economics. I have no idea if they'll be accepted or not, but as far as I can tell there's a pretty broad range of topics up there so we seem pretty good to talk about whatever.

Yeah I like his Cool and Turkey awards. OH and also the HFNT award (cough still so salty that I didn't get that award seeing I wrote Headlines for nearly two years cough).

I know what you mean. If I were to do that I'd want the WHH award to be on the "showcase" part, that'd look really nice. That and I've always wanted that award. Verified award whore.

WHH got offered to me by Lavish for so f*cking cheap and I feel like a god damn chump for not taking it.

I wouldn't take one of Lavish's awards if I was offered it for free, I could never bare to have that name on my profile. ?

I remember when I did my interview years ago, they were almost an achievement at the time. I feel like it's changed a bit since then.

Also yeah good one lol, you gotta work for those rare awards.

Yer fk that. When I acquired my Spy it had "to make lavish jelly" on it. Paid to get that changed superquick.

I understand where you're coming from on the HFNews deal, obviously I'm teasing about the whole award thing. I'm not even sure what this whole interview thing will be about... I was flirting with the idea of starting my own segment on the HFNews but work got in the way so I asked to leave. I hope they do something with the HF News though, I understand it's a bit slow of recent... but it's a nice thing to see. I guess it's all about getting new members to acknowledge, appreciate and get interested in the editions.

It's very easy for us fat old bastard HF members to sit back and enjoy it, because weve already got appreciation for this place. But for the new kids, I don't see why they should give a f*ck. And they obviously dont.

The interview will be (at least what it was back then) basic questions like how did you find out about HF, shoutout's you'd like to give, what you do outside of HF, what your future plans are, and your opinion on HF related topics.

HFNT has definitely changed, but I'm just happy to see that it's still going after all these years as it's something I'll always really care about. When I wrote Headlines I genuinely enjoyed it, put tons of effort in, I remember I'd always try to make it a 3 paragraph minimum article.

Regarding new members I almost feel like (and this has always been this way imo) that newer members almost don't want to say the wrong thing, or do something that makes them think they overstepped some boundary. Imo new members should be the ones heavily engaging in all sections of the forum rather than holding back. If a new guy wants to be a writer and he's damn good at what he wants to do, he should do it. None of them are going to get anywhere just going with the flow. You gotta make yourself stand out almost.

The only benefit I can see is that you can start a portfolio of information on anything by use of tags.
Not having to conform to the subforum categories is a huge plus for me personally.
