

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: google slowly taking over?

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 5:37 am

Just a thought

In a way I feel like google is slow taking over in a way, with them lowkey potential monopolizing tech. But in a way still kinda failing.
Still feel like google should just stay in their lane.

What do you think?

Also need to ask, idk maybe its personal.

Do you guys remember how youtube was before it was bought by google?

What do you think, was it better before google bought it do you think it is better now?

My opinion, when they bought it i kinda hated the idea cause then everything changed... like snap, who remembers when you could create add in your own background when you'd create your own page. Feel like the creators of youtube had some good ideas but i guess, the money was large enough to say yes.

Would you have taken the deal?

Stone-Island - October 9, 2019, 5:48 am

Theres nothing slow about it.

SIM-2327840 - October 9, 2019, 5:51 am

Yeah YouTube was kinda different. The old template was sick?

Pancake Boat - October 9, 2019, 5:56 am

As a customer, I don't really feel any changes from YouTube, but what I see and hear from the creators - it's a bit of a shitplace.

Zexi - October 9, 2019, 5:56 am

I don't care about the old YouTube template tbh the only thing that sucks right now is their demonetization bullshit.

Your Google searches are a great source of ads on YouTube videos, it was a insanely smart move buying YouTube considering how trash Google Video was and how everyone used YouTube instead.

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 6:00 am

(Oct 9, 2019 05:56 AM)Zexi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't care about the old YouTube template tbh the only thing that sucks right now is their demonetization bullsnap.

Your Google searches are a great source of ads on YouTube videos, it was a insanely smart move buying YouTube considering how trash Google Video was and how everyone used YouTube instead.

yeah feel like google only bought it so they can finesse google videos and make themselves look better. but still feel like now they're more so just focusing on ads in a way

(Oct 9, 2019 05:56 AM)Caligio Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) As a customer, I don't really feel any changes from YouTube, but what I see and hear from the creators - it's a bit of a shitplace.

yeah the creators can be dramtic in a way. but really? even when they slowly implement their own interface onto it?

In the end idk, but still feel like google can be a sneaky snake sometimes hayesh - October 9, 2019, 6:37 am

Im not too worried about that.Large tech companies REALLY hate each other so there will always be push back from somewhere.There are occasions where amazon blocked google from selling their products on amazons store.

Culture - October 9, 2019, 6:48 am

Probably, I think YouTube was better than now.

I don't like the channel design and I hate to connect YouTube with google

Really miss the old days :S

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 6:56 am

(Oct 9, 2019 06:33 AM)Buckfast Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Google has always been on top don't let them fool you.

never did, feel like its slowly gonna be a battle between alexa snd siri one day HAHAHA (Oct 9, 2019 06:48 AM)Culture Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Probably, I think YouTube was better than now.

I don't like the channel design and I hate to connect YouTube with google

Really miss the old days :S

thank you, hahahah exactly, youtube proably wouldve been a whole a lot better, and possibly more people friendly type of way, instead of company type of thing. but hmm one day things will get interesting in my POV

PR1V473 - October 9, 2019, 7:44 am

Yeah Google is slowly purchasing lots of companies, and I personally HATE how they added an upgraded version of YouTube... I mean that ?hit was for free before...

debian - October 9, 2019, 7:48 am

Google is just one of many faces that the Elite use to exercise control over the world's population and resources

Culture - October 9, 2019, 7:53 am

(Oct 9, 2019 07:44 AM)PR1V473 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah Google is slowly purchasing lots of companies, and I personally HATE how they added an upgraded version of YouTube... I mean that ?hit was for free before...

Microsoft is doing the same thing.

Last year the bought GitHub too...

PR1V473 - October 9, 2019, 7:55 am

(Oct 9, 2019 07:53 AM)Culture Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Microsoft is doing the same thing.

Last year the bought GitHub too...Yeah it's better for the governments to issue a subpoena to one company than 100 different ones ? ?

TheRecklessZebra - October 9, 2019, 7:59 am

I did enjoy the old YouTube i didn't even know google bought them, but i know google is going to take over the world lol

Cooligan - October 9, 2019, 8:05 am

I strongly urge all of you to check out my post I made regarding Google's "search filter" that they've never publicly admitted to having, however from time and research it is 100% there. This comes back to Google wanting to control everything.

That post: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=6005505&pid=58926998#pid58926998>

Imo Google will always want to "take over" in a sense, they're a very controlling company.

I mean just look at the partners they have like Facebook where all of your search information is accessible for better advertisement when browsing sites like Facebook.

Then there's also the whole search filter that Google has but won't publicly admit to as stated and linked above.

Xerotic - October 9, 2019, 8:25 am

I don't mind if Google buys and improves products/services that enhance my experience.

f o r m i d a b l e - October 9, 2019, 8:32 am

Opposite, their shopping is wack. G+ was a disaster. G products got kicked out of Amazon.

I still like the G Pixel.

luv. - October 9, 2019, 8:33 am

Youtube was created in 2005 and bought by Google in 2006 I doubt the version of Youtube you enjoyed wasn't already owned by Google

BTC - October 9, 2019, 8:34 am

My main issue with Google is it seems as though they're trying to become some type of content controlling monopoly on the internet.

Sure, you can just use other similar services, I get that. Don't get me wrong.

But they control so much data, and I don't always agree with how they control it. Take YouTube for instance, their guidelines in some areas are not clear, they seem to have a political bias on how they dictate rules to some people but not others.

Which, in all honesty, I'm completely fine with that. But if they're going to do that, at least be forthcoming about it, or make it more clear within the guidelines. Especially when it comes to conservative creators making satire, it is often treated very differently from satire by creators that are on the left.

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 8:50 am

(Oct 9, 2019 07:59 AM)TheRecklessZebra Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I did enjoy the old YouTube i didn't even know google bought them, but i know google is going to take over the world lol facts i feel you on that level, without a doubt . slowly and steady, just gotta be ready hahahhahahha

TheRecklessZebra - October 9, 2019, 8:52 am

(Oct 9, 2019 08:50 AM)Crispysandwich Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) facts i feel you on that level, without a doubt . slowly and steady, just gotta be ready hahahhahahha Yeah i mean have you seen the size of their sever centers?

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 8:53 am

(Oct 9, 2019 08:40 AM)Focus Broken Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Google is easily replaceable for almost all of their products, there's no reason to believe they will last forever. Think about Skype and how popular that used to be, and people started to move on to other chat platforms around the time Microsoft acquired them. I've switched from all google products except Android.

Dont really got any google products on my part, but on that windows, apple, and andriod flow. Mostly windows though, but na, from what once was a website to coming up to be something else in my book. Google going somewhere where it wants all information, cant lie not a bad thing, like an online library in a way. but still, when it starts to slowly get into things other than what it was, its just leaves a "Wow" type of expression on my face (Oct 9, 2019 08:34 AM)BTC Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My main issue with Google is it seems as though they're trying to become some type of content controlling monopoly on the internet.

Sure, you can just use other similar services, I get that. Don't get me wrong.

But they control so much data, and I don't always agree with how they control it. Take YouTube for instance, their guidelines in some areas are not clear, they seem to have a political bias on how they dictate rules to some people but not others.

Which, in all honesty, I'm completely fine with that. But if they're going to do that, at least be forth coming about it, or make it more clear within the guidelines. Especially when it comes to conservative creators making satire, it is often treated very differently from satire by creators that are on the left.

EXACTLY! google is a sneaky snake. they look all hokidoki and stuff but snap i feel like they can really just be snakes at some points

(Oct 9, 2019 08:32 AM)andromeda-m31 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Opposite, their shopping is wack. G+ was a disaster. G products got kicked out of Amazon.

I still like the G Pixel.

i mean, but lowkey that isnt stopping them, apparently they are looking into creating a video game console as well though. if they fall, they get back up in different directions

(Oct 9, 2019 08:25 AM)Xerotic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't mind if Google buys and improves products/services that enhance my experience.

i mean, i dont mind too much either, only if they actually improve. Most big companies dont tend too much on improvement. They tend to turn good things into okay things.

Updates and UIs just go down slowly with not so much good updates in attempts to gather data instead. idk just a thought

Xerotic - October 9, 2019, 9:03 am

(Oct 9, 2019 08:53 AM)Crispysandwich Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Dont really got any google products on my part, but on that windows, apple, and andriod flow. Mostly windows though, but na, from what once was a website to coming up to be something else in my book. Google going somewhere where it wants all information, cant lie not a bad thing, like an online library in a way. but still, when it starts to slowly get into things other than what it was, its just leaves a "Wow" type of expression on my face

EXACTLY! google is a sneaky snake. they look all hokidoki and stuff but snap i feel like they can really just be snakes at some points

i mean, but lowkey that isnt stopping them, apparently they are looking into creating a video game console as well though. if they fall, they get back up in different directions

i mean, i dont mind too much either, only if they actually improve. Most big companies dont tend too much on improvement. They tend to turn good things into okay things.

Updates and UIs just go down slowly with not so much good updates in attempts to gather data instead. idk just a thought

YouTube interface for me is great, perhaps even better than before. And not just the interface... video suggestions are actually quite accurate for me. I like the content they guess I want to see.

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 9:15 am

(Oct 9, 2019 09:03 AM)Xerotic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) YouTube interface for me is great, perhaps even better than before. And not just the interface... video suggestions are actually quite accurate for me. I like the content they guess I want to see.

i mean that definitely gotten improved but from before, when itd recommend really random videos. but in a way, feel like the interface just got little baby changes, at the same time dont feel like much interface was changed, but eh. rbkjahlrbrgh

Damn you slowly got me on that point

Xerotic - October 9, 2019, 9:18 am

(Oct 9, 2019 09:15 AM)Crispysandwich Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i mean that definitely gotten improved but from before, when itd recommend really random videos. but in a way, feel like the interface just got little baby changes, at the same time dont feel like much interface was changed, but eh. rbkjahlrbrgh

Damn you slowly got me on that point

Different isn't always bad. A lot of people just fight against change as first because nostalgia is a strong force. I bet newer YouTube users would hate the old style.

SoulZeh - October 9, 2019, 9:22 am

(Oct 9, 2019 09:15 AM)Crispysandwich Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i mean that definitely gotten improved but from before, when itd recommend really random videos. but in a way, feel like the interface just got little baby changes, at the same time dont feel like much interface was changed, but eh. rbkjahlrbrgh

Damn you slowly got me on that point

Nah, I have to disagree, Google is legit improved YouTube 10x better than what it use to be.. I still actually remember the old interface and it was horrid.. The new Interface seems a lot more user friendly compared to the old that's for sure and just like Xerotic has said, the suggested videos are more appealing, most of the things that come up for me are things that I like watching in spare time.

I feel it's due to mobile use though about the whole interface.

Vyrkfrir - October 9, 2019, 10:22 am

This is old news, google was seeped deeply into many people's lives as soon as it was mainstream. From there, the juggernaut has blossomed.

One - October 9, 2019, 10:25 am

World is changing and we need to learn to accept Growth

luv. - October 9, 2019, 10:31 am

(Oct 9, 2019 08:40 AM)Focus Broken Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Google is easily replaceable for almost all of their products, there's no reason to believe they will last forever. Think about Skype and how popular that used to be, and people started to move on to other chat platforms around the time Microsoft acquired them. I've switched from all google products except Android.

You really think Youtube is replaceable? Or Googles ad network?

duck - October 9, 2019, 11:28 am

(Oct 9, 2019 10:31 AM)luv. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You really think Youtube is replaceable? Or Googles ad network?

possible but not gonna be in the near 5 years unless they really fuck up something hard but even though of this would happen, people would still use them

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 6:49 pm

(Oct 9, 2019 10:25 AM)One Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) World is changing and we need to learn to accept Growth thats a fact, hopefully its for the better but in the end just gotta keep your head up and eyes sharp

(Oct 9, 2019 11:21 AM)red Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Imagine thinking Google is "slowly" taking over. Bruh, they took over 10 years ago..? How do you access the internet? A PC? Microsoft? Apple's iPhone? Samsungs Android?

Ugh I hate stupidity. I am off this forum for today.

im dead, i know that, but snap, just seeing what people think, dang started to notice it ever since they took youtube, but just a random thought. slowly google trying to be something bigger than thought and lowkey feel like microsoft lowkey just eh,

(Oct 9, 2019 11:28 AM)duck Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) possible but not gonna be in the near 5 years unless they really fugg up something hard but even though of this would happen, people would still use them enless something else comes through

axel - October 9, 2019, 6:52 pm

it's younger than me and already took over a huge role over the world, it's insane and nothing is slow about it tbh

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 6:54 pm

(Oct 9, 2019 06:52 PM)axel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) it's younger than me and already took over a huge role over the world, it's insane and nothing is slow about it tbh in a way though dont feel like many people see it, unless they actully know about it though. But we'll see what happens next, now that AI's are slowly being introduced, with Googles data base, wonder what will happen next hahahaha

axel - October 9, 2019, 6:55 pm

technology overall took us over so much i wonder more if we're not going to be taken over or eliminated off our planet

DNA - October 9, 2019, 6:57 pm

Think about this;
Google has Quantum's
Google has a DRL program called DeepMind that pioneered machine learning
Google is a service used by billions
Android is owned by Google

Google is becoming the next Microsoft.
Microsoft fails at development
Apple prevails with sales (a tactic that in itself, will gradually decline)
Google sneaks it's way into your life to a point where "just google it" is a common phrase.

As someone mentioned, there's nothing slow about it.
The Android takeover was swift
Products that fail are promptly removed (i.e. Google Glasses), they keep up to date with their products (i.e. closing Google+) and they are aware.
This is nothing new, Google will be bigger than Apple in a decade

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 9, 2019, 6:59 pm

(Oct 9, 2019 06:55 PM)axel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) technology overall took us over so much i wonder more if we're not going to be taken over or eliminated off our planet soon or later, with how everything is going, the ones that know how to use it will be able to control it, at the same time with be corps in charge, with how some runs things now, a lot of things may not be how we may think it will be. Everything depends on how it'll be used

(Oct 9, 2019 06:57 PM)Jelly Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Think about this;
Google has Quantum's
Google has a DRL program called DeepMind that pioneered machine learning
Google is a service used by billions
Android is owned by Google

Google is becoming the next Microsoft.
Microsoft fails at development
Apple prevails with sales (a tactic that in itself, will gradually decline)
Google sneaks it's way into your life to a point where "just google it" is a common phrase.

As someone mentioned, there's nothing slow about it.
The Android takeover was swift
Products that fail are promptly removed (i.e. Google Glasses), they keep up to date with their products (i.e. closing Google+) and they are aware.
This is nothing new, Google will be bigger than Apple in a decade slowly and steady google will take over the world loomski - October 9, 2019, 8:35 pm

Wait, OP.

You are only now getting such a feeling? It's not really a feeling, Google runs shit lmao. You use their services every day along with millions of others. Services that you don't pay for, but you know damn well it costs them money to keep these things available to you 24 hours a day, 7 days a week 365 days a year unless it's a leap year.

Let that sink in.

Threat - October 9, 2019, 8:44 pm

If only youtube could go back to when it was the television icon on the iPhones :(

Natas - October 10, 2019, 12:32 am

The old youtube style was a lot better you could have your channel more personal it was dope af
Also I remember no adds or very less adds.

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 10, 2019, 8:00 am

(Oct 9, 2019 08:35 PM)loomski Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wait, OP.

You are only now getting such a feeling? It's not really a feeling, Google runs Clay Davis Imao. You use their services every day along with millions of others. Services that you don't pay for, but you know damn well it costs them money to keep these things available to you 24 hours a day, 7 days a week 365 days a year unless it's a leap year.

Let that sink in.

bahaaah blahh, just wished they can leave some thing alone

(Oct 10, 2019 12:32 AM)Natas Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The old youtube style was a lot better you could have your channel more personal it was dope af
Also I remember no adds or very less adds.
exactly lowkey wished the devs stook with a it too

flavoral - October 10, 2019, 8:26 am

Actually i would Google is already taking over xD bakeblacks - October 10, 2019, 8:39 am

it's nice as it is, can't complain.

GENT - October 11, 2019, 12:13 am

Google (along with Apple until now) was always really good to seize a good opportunity in the right time. I really gotta give to their research and development team because of that. But also sales managers

And that's what separated them from competitors and allowed them to have so much power. I mean, along with buying their competitors

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 11, 2019, 6:25 am

(Oct 11, 2019 12:13 AM)scarif Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Google (along with Apple until now) was always really good to seize a good opportunity in the right time. I really gotta give to their research and development team because of that. But also sales managers

And that's what separated them from competitors and allowed them to have so much power. I mean, along with buying their competitors
just hope their developers are cool people

PR1V473 - October 11, 2019, 6:57 am

Mainly so they can monitor 1 person with just 1 company having 4 services that you use.