Thread: Thank you for letting me join the forum

Coinmase - October 9, 2019, 12:43 pm

Hello there.

So I'm new here on this forum, and I don't even know if this is the right place I posted my thread, otherwise just move it to the right section ?

This is my first time on HackForums, so I will read everything before I get started to join the community (you guys). Clearly right now I'm a noob, but I hope i see some positive comments, and not negative.

Best regards,

Coinmase

Hello,

You have a better section which is called "Introduction", however, welcome to you :)

If you want to be a good member take a look about the Help Docs, be careful about trading here.

If you need some help about trouble that you encounter with your computer you can take a look about the tech section and more specifically the White Hat section for any malware trouble.

If you need help don't forget to give us as much information as possible !

Have a nice journey of HF ;)

Thank you very much for your little introducing, and thanks for correct me to the right section, but my question is: how do I move this thread to the right section?

Welcome to the forums dude, as mentioned read the Help Docs, upgrades are worth it and you're off to a good start by posting in the correct section.

Good luck

Not sure you can do it by yourself, but don't worry about that, just take care for the next time ?

Usually the moderators do it for you
