what do u want from the site?

Idea - look at the hint for the email (cant believe they provide it!), maybe you know it? and can try access the email address instead and then send reset there..

Or target the person who owns the email to get creds

I wouldn't suggest you to keep trying lol, it might take over days and your IP will get blocked soon or later.

You better try to inject some SQL commands into it, a site like this has to be vulnerable somehow.

If that is your school official website, you can use social engineering when you're at school.
