Thread: Fighter jet experience

HF.Psych - October 11, 2019, 8:20 pm

Has anyone ever done a fighter jet experience? I've just booked a day with a fighter pilot and a jet. I've never been into that stuff but I thought it'd be an awesome experience.

Spaark - October 11, 2019, 8:25 pm

I haven't but hell am I jealous of those who have. I've heard nothing but great experiences from people who've done it.

Be sure to report back man, it's supposed to be awesome.

Yeah I heard the US F-35's with the helmet you can see all around you like xray so it looks like you're floating in air in your perspective.

That's with cameras that project vision from beneath the aircraft right?

I heard those helmets are custom designed to the pilot and cost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Yeah something like that, that would be scary first time. You're just floating in air lool

I can't imagine it'd be too disruptive to the pilot... they still need to have access to all their flight instruments.

reBELLYus - October 11, 2019, 9:14 pm

How much did this set you back? I would be scared out of my mind.

N - October 11, 2019, 9:40 pm

Are you gonna have video of this? Sounds cool, how much did it cost?

HF.Psych - October 11, 2019, 9:50 pm

It cost £250, it's a full day of flying and a meal

de_g3ntl3m4n - October 11, 2019, 9:54 pm

I have't done it but was honestly thinking the same.

Want to do that and also sky dive

But do let me know how it feels

Interesting. Two different quotes, from two different people, meaning the same thing.

Fighter Jet/Air Force commercial was on right when I clicked into your thread too. Pretty strange stuffz.

Strange, quotes from my favorite author.

I just finished watching a video to see other experiences and it looks good.

Not to sit in the other seat whilst he flies.

250GBP sounds too cheap for a full day of flying and a meal. But have fun OP and report back i'd love to try it too.

Nope, with an independent company who run off of donations. They are ex raf pilots, you get to spend the day at the place. There was one for £366 which was air acrobatics but you had to do all sorts of tests and precautions before doing it. Honestly I'd appreciate just the flying

I want to just try new things really. I want to drive a dodge charger or own one but here in the UK they are pretty rare to find.

Oh nice, I'd love to fly a plane. Its been my wish since forever. But my eyesight isn't great and I have a few medical conditions which would be a hazard. So I'll just appreciate being in the Co seat for now.

like this.

I want to do the adrenaline pack. Sky diving, all sorts for dirt cheap.

Cooligan - October 12, 2019, 9:40 am

No shit man? That sounds like it'd be a ton of fun.

I've always wanted to go sky diving so I feel like I would thoroughly enjoy this as well.

Are you in the US?

I'm in the UK so we don't have as much to offer here. Skydiving worries me lmao I cant imagine willingly letting myself fall out of the sky

Tbh I probably wouldn't get in a fighter jet unless it was the pilot seat. I doubt my body could handle it.

I don't see anything about him experiencing it in a F-35 though.

Ah true I falsely made that assumption from all the other talk. Even still, the older generation jets are still pushing >$1,000 an hour to fly.

Yeah, i searched up F-15 cost and it's still 1.5k to fly lol

Ahhh nah you'd be able to sky dive if you're able to go on a fighter jet run simulation.

I'm presuming the day is broken up so it's an entire day out but probably set time for flying. Its hard in the UK we don't have so many opportunities to do these things really. We have cliché red letter days but nothing exciting. My next list is to ride in a hell cat with a driver, hotvair balloon sounds sweet af. I want to live a bit now

I actually have and it was one of the best experiences in my life to date.
