Hi, what do you think about that site? Does it pay of to invest in marketing like google ads or facebook ads? I have some money that i wanted to invest, but im not sure in those (not free) methos that i found on this site .

Both Google and FB will straight up kick you for trying to direct link to any offers on CB. You would need a landing page or site centered around the content at hand.

...and even then you're not likely to get many clicks since other people with more money are going to outbid you at any opportunity, trying to drag you into a bidding war that you'll never win.

Looking to make money in a week? Not in ecom, it is possible to make money with affiliate, but it will take you months to create audience and most products on clickbank are over sold, no idea if they got something better, but it's not easy and it will take some time.

This is correct.

Look at other affiliate networks like clickdealer, imonetizeit, adcombo etc.

I feel like it's a waste of your time. You don't make that much, it's a sham.

Clickbank is trustable soruce of income, but it is already saturated.

You can try youtube videos, to maximize profits and to cut the spendings with a good video seo. Otherway, if you still learning this can cost you a lot before you'll see first earnings.
