This is my university assignment for this semester.

I've found quite a few sources and a lot of good information, however, has anybody done something like this?

I'm new to .NET, are there any good frameworks around I should try out?

Any suggestions on what to actually start with?

Huge thanks in advance.

I find it funny how the filter is modifying your text to indicate that warez are not allowed yet you're asking for them..

In any case, you should learn up about Model-View-Controller, how it works and how it is applied in .NET Core. There are great resources online that explain this without the need for payments, like here for example:

Lets keep out warez out of the equation.

What does your assignment require you to create, as in, what's the assignment brief say?
