This method is great! I really like how simple it is, and how it takes advantage of some basic stuff to deliver something great. It involves being able to copy and paste into a search engine, tweak it as necessary, and then use Tor to complete the deal.

Despite the fact it uses Tor, this doesn't involve anything you'd usually associate with it. I did a test run, and I can confirm that this does indeed work, although sometimes you may need to tweak your search parameters every now and then to make sure the results are live and not older/useless results.

I can definitely see the potential in this to make money, and to take advantage of referral programs. So much so, that I'm going to do some heavy search to see how best I can use this.

I will rate this method a solid 8/10, as it's not completely foolproof and could become saturated if a lot of people get on this, but it's fantastic for what it does. I have mentioned to OP that I think the price should be raised to prevent wide saturation, and also because it's simply quite valuable a method. Great stuff.

Real referrals for what? Any kind of program, or specific ones?

Does this work for referrals that require ID verification + mobile?

Mobile no, but ID maybe if you found a id card.
