

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Forum n00b with way too much time on their hands seeks ewhore mentor.

ruxz - October 22, 2019, 1:58 pm

So I thought I'd throw this out there and see if it sticks, I've been doing a lot of searching/reading, etc. and while I'm 100% sure I can find all the info I need to get started online, it's a lot to process & to be honest I'm feeling a little overwhelmed with all the info floating around out there, so something step by step I could follow until I find my own feet would be awesome, as they say, first imitate then innovate.

I bought a method/mentorship package a month or 2 ago, but that seems to have been abandoned & the seller hasn't been back to the forum since, so that's unfortunate... sadface.

But anyway... Why me? What do I have to offer? Well, I'm glad you asked, apart from the vast amount of free time I have to write post's like this, I'm also quite a cool dude and a fairly quick study, so while a mentor who could show me the ropes would be cool, I also probably won't be bugging you every 15 minutes for help. Win-Win.

Here's the real catch though, for your help I can offer you like literally a grand total of $5.14 BTC, $1 PayPal & 27,572.4 bytes, yes twenty-seven thousand, which to be honest I would be a little sad to let go, because they're quite cool to look at, lol. But that's 3 different currencies, in one deal, think of the stories you could tell.

So if you're like me and the idea of vast amounts of internet monies intrigues you, perhaps we could come to an agreement, where you'd get said internet monies & I'd get something to spend all my free time on.

P.S. Admin if this is in the wrong section, I'm sorry, please don't ban me, I looked at the buyer's section but this felt more specific. Also, I promise I'll use a contract, see I know some of the rules. ?

Brian Quinn - October 22, 2019, 5:36 pm

You don't need a mentor to start lmao. The best way to get good at it ewhoring is to just do it.

??0X? - October 22, 2019, 11:59 pm

That's nice idea and concept for someone who has no experience in making money online, I'm not trying to be rude here or to pop your bubble. But think about it, put your self in somebody else skin. What are you bringing to table for someone who is already making hundreds of dollars a day. That person is not interested in you and your friendship or your money, he is already making much more money doing his own shit. You would have to pay for their time and even if you find somebody, that person a "mentor" a "guru" can't guarantee to you that you will be able to make same amount of money and be equally successful. Because everyone is different and every person is doing the same thing differently so in the light of this you can't expect that someone will hold your hand along the way it's just doesn't work like that. Those kind of deals are working only if you are my best friend or my brother, I'm afraid that helping random guys on the internet is just something that doesn't pay off. I mean think about it, for mentor it would be time consuming and risky and he would need to trust to absolute stranger on given word that you will pay him back this way or another once you have steady income. It's just too risky. I'm sorry you got screwed buying mentorship package because I did that too and ended just like you and we both know who sold us that package but consider that as a lesson, I know I did. There's no magic bullet in ebooks, you have to do it by your own, you have to put time in researching and be dedicated to learn how things works, trial and error, test a lot and learn by your own mistakes. And then if you stuck you will have right questions. Ask those questions here and I'm sure there's good people in the shadow who are willing to help you so you can move on and jump the wall. People don't give a fuck for you and me or anyone else problems that's reality and harsh truth. I hope that you won't misunderstood this and I wish you luck finding mentor, maybe I'm wrong.

??0X? - October 23, 2019, 12:23 am

I'm glad if my post actually provoked you to help him and I don't mind if that was just to prove me I'm wrong. I don't have issues being wrong.

erotic - October 23, 2019, 12:39 am

(Oct 23, 2019 12:23 AM)FOX979 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm glad if my post actually provoked you to help him and I don't mind if that was just to prove me I'm wrong. I don't have issues being wrong. I'm joking mate it wasn't only you ?

Oi1998 - October 23, 2019, 5:14 am

I'm down to assist you. Dm me ruxz - October 24, 2019, 1:01 am

(Oct 22, 2019 11:59 PM)FOX979 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's nice idea and concept for someone who has no experience in making money online, I'm not trying to be rude here or to pop your bubble. But think about it, put your self in somebody else skin. What are you bringing to table for someone who is already making hundreds of dollars a day. That person is not interested in you and your friendship or your money, he is already making much more money doing his own Clay Davis. You would have to pay for their time and even if you find somebody, that person a "mentor" a "guru" can't guarantee to you that you will be able to make same amount of money and be equally successful. Because everyone is different and every person is doing the same thing differently so in the light of this you can't expect that someone will hold your hand along the way it's just doesn't work like that. Those kind of deals are working only if you are my best friend or my brother, I'm afraid that helping random guys on the internet is just something that doesn't pay off. I mean think about it, for mentor it would be time consuming and risky and he would need to trust to absolute stranger on given word that you will pay him back this way or another once you have steady income. It's just too risky. I'm sorry you got screwed buying mentorship package because I did that too and ended just like you and we both know who sold us that package but consider that as a lesson, I know I did. There's no magic bullet in ebooks, you have to do it by your own, you have to put time in researching and be dedicated to learn how things works, trial and _error_, test a lot and learn by your own mistakes. And then if you stuck you will have right questions. Ask those questions here and I'm sure there's good people in the shadow who are willing to help you so you can move on and jump the wall. People don't give a fugg for you and me or anyone else problems that's reality and harsh truth. I hope that you won't misunderstood this and I wish you luck finding mentor, maybe I'm wrong.

(Oct 23, 2019 12:23 AM)FOX979 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm glad if my post actually provoked you to help him and I don't mind if that was just to prove me I'm wrong. I don't have issues being wrong.

That's a long post, just to tell me that nobody care's about me, ouch dude, you wound me... I thought it was only my mother who didn't care. ;)

Seriously though, I wasn't going to post a reply and I get what you're saying, but I think you misunderstood a lot of the nuance in my post, which if explained kind of ruins it, but I'll say this, I realize that if we're going on post count alone I'm a nobody, even though I actually have some connection's from before the contract system was even a thing and am on some discord's, but yeah in the ewhore space, I'm unknown.

That said, just because this is text on a webpage doesn't mean that we aren't still real people behind the monitor's, so people skills still play a huge part in your interactions and how you present yourself goes a long way to making meaningful connection's.

Which is why I didn't just make a post asking "Would any sellers be willing to accept my byte's as payment for one of their program's?", I instead spent some time injecting some personality into my post and if you could see my inbox, you'd see the point I'm trying to make.

So this isn't to bash you, but no, it wasn't your post that "provoked" anyone to help me...

I also never offered my friendship or the promise of future payment for mentorship. I have/had a lot of byte's, which have value, I know, I checked the currency trade's section. I could have tried to sell them, instead, I made a post to see if anyone would be willing to accept them as payment, so you see I did have something to offer & there are many post's in the market section where people are interested in money in exchange for mentorship... so... confused.

And then the comment I made about the previous mentorship program I bought, was not to complain or to even bash the seller, it was simply to illustrate that I am willing to invest in personal development, it's just that it wasn't helpful for me where I am currently. Right now, I need a solid foundation, once I have that foundation the sky's the limit, I know this. You see if I try something 10 time's, I don't need to succeed 10 times, I only need to succeed once, the trick is to survive until you succeed.

Could the seller have handled it better? Sure and I bought his top package, but I did learn some thing's, that I might still try to implement with my own spin at a later stage.

Yes, I agree with some of what you're saying, but is that because people have changed or because we as people are slowly losing our ability to effectively interact with others?

(Oct 23, 2019 12:10 AM)RuneArt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hey man,

I'm relatively new to the eWhoring business (I've only been making good money for a couple of months now) but I've still made a fair amount from it.

I know that you are looking for a professional guy who has however many millions of reputation. But that ain't me, yet...

But anyway I guess I'm too much of a nice guy to be on these forums because there are so many scabs asking for help, but I can definitely emphasise. I mean if you go to my firsts posts I was just asking what AGC was in a thread etc.

But anyway my discord is RuneArt#3005 if you want to hit me up there.

I'm not gonna ask for any payment yet, so I guess I'm doing everything wrong but I have mentored two people now and they've both done successfully and managed to pay me back. But I guess whilst the money is a big part for me, without sounding too cliché it's not what it's all about.

This is what I mean about being too nice for the forums ?

And anyway the main reason I'm doing this is to prove wrong ?

But yeah like I said. PM me or just add me on Discord ?

I think I've found a mentor, but if it's cool, I'd still like to add you on discord, I think we'd get along well & theres no telling what fun we might get up to in the future.

And to everyone who pm'd thank you all, you're rockstar's. ?

??0X? - October 24, 2019, 2:52 am

Hey man at the end of the day who cares what I said? Congrats. You found your self a mentor and that's the most important thing after all. I wish you all the best!