Does people knocking on your door at Halloween piss you off? Or do you answer it and get in the spirit of things?

I personally ignore the door and find it a nuisance.

Zexi - October 25, 2019, 9:15 am

If i am not at a party on halloween i am locked in my basement so i never open the doors. ;)

Seife?r - October 25, 2019, 9:16 am

Normally I just let someone else do it, but it's the first year living in my own place.... so probably going to turn all the lights off and hide.

I'd hate to imagine what goes on in your basement, it's probably best you don't open the door.

Best hope you don't get some little shits that egg or toilet paper your house then.

My mate tried to hide in the dark from them, and they threw a petrol bomb through his window and murdered him, good luck.

Naked Halloween costume tryouts.

V?rt - October 25, 2019, 9:20 am

Nope, I have absolutely nobody come to my door, I live in the middle of no where.

Exe - October 25, 2019, 9:21 am

No it doesn't piss me off it only happens once a year and its for people to enjoy the dead and give razor candies to kids

I live in a council estate, whats the worst they can do. Cost more in matches then damage done to burn the place down.

Rough up some of them estates, you might get some slapper and her angry boyfriend pissed at you that you ruined her lil nippers first Halloween. It'll start a vendetta and you'll be on Neighbours from Hell.

My neighborhood is packed with infants, if I were to open the door (every 10 seconds) I'd rather just sit outside.

Around where I live kids only come to your door if you have lights and/or decorations. Many people don't give out candy anymore with all the craziness of society and the economy being shit, not many people want to answer the door every 5 minutes and give out something they bought for free.

Trick or treating used to be more popular in England years ago, but now you could be knocking on the door of a jihadi, so people aren't so keen on it.

I dont know. Nobody would just randomly come to my house. If they're at my house, its for a reason or they know me. You kind of have to go out of your way to get here.

Wiberg - October 25, 2019, 11:51 am

My dad used to always buy a shit ton of candy, I found it pretty funny when kids came by.

I guess I can understand that.. We have people paranoid ranting about razor blades in their kids candy

Maxorg - October 26, 2019, 8:25 am

Halloween isn't really celebrated in my country so I won't know, but I'm sure it would get annoying after some time.

N - October 26, 2019, 8:42 am

My whole street does it, so shit we do it too and give out candy. Some baddies with their kids usually come too so it's a plus!

4L CAPONE - October 26, 2019, 8:45 am

Used to but honestly its been dying out and have more important shit to do

MavenGradle - October 26, 2019, 9:03 am

The only people that go door-to-door around here are Jehovah's mother fucking witnesses.
