What's your favorite English word and why?

Mine is defenestrate simply because of how humorously specific it is.

Zexi - October 25, 2019, 2:07 pm

I have a very weak vocabulary and i don't really have a word i like the most but i like sex. So it's sex.

Presocratic - October 25, 2019, 2:21 pm

Mine is flabbergasted. Sounds like German, sounds elegant, so I feel British every time I pronounce it.

SIM-3897961 - October 25, 2019, 2:23 pm

My favorite english word is assassin because it says ass twice or do you mean birtish when you say English.

Such a self-indulgent hedonistic swine aren't you?

A fine choice of word nonetheless.

I'm flabbergasted that you think flabbergasted sounds like 'German'.

I jest.

That's a fair assessment I must say.

e-whoring lol. I just learned this new word here!

MavenGradle - October 25, 2019, 4:13 pm

Call me simplistic but the word "cunt" vexes me every time. There's something vicious and vicarious about it. Yet it very much sounds and feels like death by a thousand paper cuts if someone throws it at you.

Call me anything, oh sweet people of this world. Anything except cunt.

Edit: Ok the fucking filter in this place is messing with this shit. The word is not kitten for fucks sake. Reading this back it makes things sound fucking gay. It's not, trust me. Fuck the filter ? . I find it funny how the description I gave still applies to god damn kittens too.

Linux X - October 25, 2019, 11:28 pm

I like the word ethereal. I don't use it often but its cool word.

eipie - October 26, 2019, 12:13 am

I love the word aforementioned. It makes technical writing seem less repetitive.

Vitani's Mate - October 26, 2019, 2:58 am

My fave word is Khunt (not the spelling because of filter.)

If you live in Australia. You will know.

Wiberg - October 26, 2019, 3:04 am

Wanker since it sounds funny

Azythum - October 26, 2019, 3:07 am

I like the word be, because i like metaphysic and i i think about Shakespeare and the phrase to be or not to be.

SteezyLeff - October 26, 2019, 11:49 am

I too, like the word defenestrate a lot; it was what I thought of when I saw the thread. For another one though, it'd most likely be mercurial, or proletariat.

Yes much better.

I challenge people to create a short paragraph utilising all the words submitted thus far just once. Here's my attempt:

HackForums had me in a dichotomy when some c*nt triggered my Hippopotomonstrosesquippedaliophobia by sanctimoniously claiming Mogwai is literally a deployable English f*cking word, and so I drove my old banger Volkswagen from Zanzibar with my kitten, after defenestrating myself, to the sex shop to get some DMT drugs off my stoner mate, who's a bit of a wanker, and upon taking the aforementioned substance, I was flabbergasted then I drifted into some cosmic daydream, an ethereal space, whereby I became some omnipotent assassin, and this word salad gave me iridocyclitis.

Words submitted thus far:

Spoiler (Click to View)dichotomy, wanker, Hippopotomonstrosesquippedaliophobia, sanctimonious, Mogwai, banger, deploy, salad, Volkswagen, f*ck, sex, flabbergasted kitten, cosmic, Zanzibar, aforementioned, ethereal, c*nt, wanker, be, omnipotence, assassin, literally, stoner, drug, iridocyclitis
