

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: duckdns SOS

ninfaaruna - October 26, 2019, 2:41 am

Old ip: 192.169.69.25

If this IP appears in duckdns, your dns have been blocked

Can you recover? ? ?

w1l5t3r - October 26, 2019, 4:41 am

(Oct 26, 2019 02:41 AM)ninfaaruna Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Old ip: 192.169.69.25

If this IP appears in duckdns, your dns have been blocked

Can you recover? ? ?

can maybe try your external IP then connect tp your rats then edit connections to new ddns

ninfaaruna - October 26, 2019, 5:22 am

thank you, I have tried and it cannot be done, the domain cannot be deleted, the account cannot be deleted.

there's a solution?

w1l5t3r - October 26, 2019, 11:53 am

(Oct 26, 2019 05:22 AM)ninfaaruna Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) thank you, I have tried and it cannot be done, the domain cannot be deleted, the account cannot be deleted.

there's a solution?

no, on your software whatever you're using (spynote, spymax etc...) use Public IP to connect instead of DDNS. Then once connected on your clients just update the new DDNS settings (edit connections) and save it. You won't need the old duck dns as it is linked to your public IP anyway. Just create a new ddns, use public IP to connect for now and edit the settings on the clients you have and save and use the new ddns.

Red Vegas - October 26, 2019, 10:37 pm

How did this happen? I hope you have good opsec OP lol

ninfaaruna - October 27, 2019, 12:06 am

What is it? Opsec OP lol, can you help me with this problem?

QU?CKSILVER - October 27, 2019, 8:07 pm

DuckDNS will not give your domain back to you due to botnet use.

They've been doing this for quite a while, you should've known this...

Stay away from it.

ninfaaruna - October 28, 2019, 12:50 am

gracias,lo tendre en cuenta