Thread: Patching Anti-Sandboxie with IDA debugger

Sethmumu - November 3, 2019, 9:57 am

hey,

I need help with patching in ida, i want people to help me investigate and find the sandboxie dll (i think it's called sbiedll.dll, but cannot be found in ida after search)

Original file cannot be ran in sandboxie because it's ANTI

So everyone who have experience with Patching, please add me to discord: Seppy#8022 or just leave PM, i've been watching lots of videos with patching but it has nothing to do with patching real sandboxie, so the Anti won't detect and could be run in sandboxie

If you can help me do it through teamviewer, i would really appreciate that, reward big money

i'm new so don't hate

Jesus fucking crist dude..... You don't even know what an api is. Maybe it's time to start learning the basics of programming before you even think about this? This is the second thread you make a about the same subject.

Nice joke, but the subject is different, and I don't need any programming language to patch sandboxie, only skill and knowledge and abit experience in cracking

Ehh, so you don't need knowledge about programming(asm and c/c++), x86/x64 architecture and winapi to do cracking/reverse engineering? It's quite clear that you need to stop right here and take a big step back while reevaluating the entire process. If you want to learn basic reverse engineering you're starting in the wrong end, this will lead you nowhere and what you just said is ridiculously stupid.

OP lead me on an endless loop of shit to do for him, looks like he is trying to avoid paying me.

He also doesn't know the difference between dnspy / x64dbg / ida and when to use them, and refuses to accept that a file is C++.

What are you talking about, you made 8k in 2 days, all I wanted is to bypass anti-vm and anti-sandboxie, you didn't show anything , I still didn't get c++ source of the malware in dnspy, so i can't decompile it
