Thread: Any way/trick to avoid chargeback on paypal

Hi guys,

Is there anyway you can avoid chargeback on paypal. I've heard you can transfer the money very quickly tto your main account but what happens to you second (E-Whoring) account? Does the balance go negative?

both your accounts will get limited, if u want to avoid chargebacks accept payments as friends and family instead of normal payments

I've found making a paypal.me link and sending that to them works best, as it sends as friends and family when you use that link. Also obviously, don't scam or do anything to piss off your clients. I've gotten 70+ members on my current premium snap, and 30+ on my other and haven't had a single chargeback yet.

And when Paypal checks the inbound traffic on that .me link and sees what you are selling, chargebacks will be the least of your worries.

Best to have a redirect link of some sort on it so when people click the link on Snapchat it goes to a legit site first then to the payment page on PayPal, wouldn't that work? You could set up a legit site selling some digital shit to redirect from

Other than friends and family way, the only method I know is having them "open a dispute" and then convincing them to close it. Once a dispute is closed on a transaction paypal won't review or do anything with it anymore. Learned the hard way when I was a kid but convincing someone to do that is a whole different beast.

You could set up a legit site selling some digital Clay Davis to redirect from That would be a better way to do it. The best way is to just give them an email. Paypal uses methods like that to catch ewhores, camgirls and anyone selling sexually related items (that isn't Pornhub).

ricardotankul - November 5, 2019, 5:17 am just use friends and family

I dint e whore hate it but I can offer a little advice here. Only accept friends and family because it will get limited happened to me with a transaction having nothing to do with ewhoring. Make sure to keep customers satisfied to keep them from charging back.

Also, I reccomend throwing out PayPal all together and using Cashapp

enchantra - November 5, 2019, 11:59 pm

I've been pondering this subject for some time now, so interesting thread.
Does cashapp allow adult-related stuff?

Now we can't discuss blackhat activity, but I read something in an article not long ago about buying a physical visa gift card, creating 2x PayPal accs, sending all your funds from first one to second one that you want, withdrawing physically into cash and then never touching them again. I don't think the person ever got caught from what I read ;}

RealKeem - November 6, 2019, 1:16 am dont scam users with cock pics and nudes and dont need to worry about it
