Thread: Selling Amazon Accounts / Selling a "AGC Balance"?

Venture - November 4, 2019, 3:07 pm

I've seen an influx of people labeling trades in the Currency Exchange subforum "Selling AGC Balance", balances are part of the account itself, so in short is selling your "AGC Balance" allowed since it also means you have to sell an Amazon Account? Its mainly what people who do eWhoring use to cash out I think.

Under the Help Docs it says this

Quote:Amazon/eBay Account Trading

Any buying, selling, or trading of eBay/Amazon accounts is not allowed due to the fact that these accounts have credit cards and personal information attached.

You obviously don't know how Amazon works. They can buy the balance by making the owner of the account buy other gift cards for them on Amazon and sell them those or by using Gift of prime (buying a prime gift for them so they receive the balance on their account).

It doesn't mean you have to sell your account.

But if the OP is selling his account that isn't allowed.

It doesn't mean you have to sell your account, so i am 100% sure it is allowed.

I've used Amazon before and I know you can't buy AGC's with your balance, but I've never heard of using "Prime Gifts" as a way to cash out.

You do have a point here as most people do just sell off the account at times, and that's not allowed here. If you can catch someone red handed doing this and flag the issue in front of staff, I am sure they'll take action.

Most of the time amazon will flag the account if you try to buy any gift card with balance. They'll ask you to wait till their verifications team calls within 72 hours and then the vicious cycle starts of verifying.

Did they just get caught red handed? Because the replies were coming in fast, and came to a complete stand still. I really wanna know what I'm missing out on. ? No offense to people like Zexi <3

In 2017 you could still buy gift cards with AGC balance

In 2018 you could still buy gift cards with AGC balance

In 2019 you still can buy gift cards with AGC balance

Why are you out here trying to "catch" people anyway? Dweeb

LOL

He is talking about people who buy/sell accounts, if you see a contract about a amazon account or a thread offering a account for sale you should report that but reporting people offering balance is just a waste of staff's time.

And it didn't allow you because your address on Amazon isn't in the US. I've been buying gift cards with balance since 2017.
