

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: I think i might be psychopath, anyone else?

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 12:10 am

Well, i've out-smarted way to many people in my life and as I was sent to various of test, I always lied to them, to the professionals, dead serious and perfect back story behind every of my sentence made up within minutes.

Thinking back at it, i think it's crazy.

I don't do this for the purpose to be dick but to save my ass and not deal with problems / for my own gain.

I gather all kind of information about everyone and use then and I do know social norms and so on so i know how to act and what to say.

Maybe that's just part of social engineering, i have no idea.

Anyone can relate, an i psycho? I think i might also be sociopath or something i have bit of social anxiety but I can also hide it very well if needed.

Super weird and I can't describe my personality too cause I can be everyone I need to, if that makes sense.

Thanks, chook.

Zero - November 7, 2019, 12:40 am

Oh man I feel very similar to you. Sometimes I find myself to the same shit as you mentioned and when I think about it I'm like "Why the fuck do I do that fucked up shit?"

Psilocybe - November 7, 2019, 3:50 am

I feel the same way, there's too many tards in society though.

Horiizon - November 7, 2019, 7:10 am

Being manipulative to get what you want lol.

I adjust my slang etc when talking to different kinds of people lol. For example, I was at a house party and there was no more alcohol. A spanish kid was holding a handle of alcohol so we started talking he asked if I was puerto rican because I looked it (i'm not, i'm italian), but of course, I wanted a drink, so to him I was PR!

Silent Uprising - November 7, 2019, 7:13 am

Nah I don't think your a psycho. It's just a skill you've developed over time. I do the same.

I play a game called RuneScape and I lure people on it all the time. Get them on voice chat and I pretend to laugh at their jokes and make them feel special like we are really friends. And then I take their bank and dip.

Mike Jike - November 7, 2019, 7:14 am

Your just abcovert narcissist

Elweth - November 7, 2019, 7:37 am

(Nov 7, 2019 08:14 AM)Mike Jike Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Your just abcovert narcissist
Perhaps this ^

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 8:07 am

(Nov 7, 2019 08:13 AM)Silent Uprising Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Nah I don't think your a psycho. It's just a skill you've developed over time. I do the same.

I play a game called RuneScape and I lure people on it all the time. Get them on voice chat and I pretend to laugh at their jokes and make them feel special like we are really friends. And then I take their bank and dip.

Could be and I do this all the time.

(Nov 7, 2019 08:14 AM)Mike Jike Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Your just abcovert narcissist (Nov 7, 2019 08:37 AM)Giselle Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Perhaps this ^

I don't think I'm narcissist but that's one would say right.

As I was going through the symptoms I don't think I'm sensitive to constructive criticism, rather non-sense criticism. If someone can provide a good constructive criticism, I'm very ok with it and I try my best not to repeat the same mistake but if someone says " you are stupid cause you do it this way " and that's it, I wouldn't consider myself as sensitive rather angry cause saying something like that, it's just waste of time for us both.

Long story short NPD is characterised by a long-term pattern of exaggerated feelings of self-importance, an excessive need for admiration, and a lack of empathy toward other people. People with NPD often spend much time thinking about achieving power and success, or on their appearance.

I don't think I have exaggerated feelings of self-importance neither excessive need for admiration as I don't really like being admired too much and I think I'm person with great amount of empathy as I personally has gone through a lot of struggle when I was in child hood so I can relate with others.

Haha but yeah, this what would narcissist probably also said and he's gonna argue he's not even thought he is. So yeah, who really knows but personally I don't think I'm one.

Rsynced - November 7, 2019, 8:25 am

Do you have a conscience?

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 8:34 am

(Nov 7, 2019 09:25 AM)Rsynced Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do you have a conscience?

Conscience from doing that? Like a bad feeling?

Not anymore, I got pretty much used to it and now it's just a standard thing and I don't even think about it.

If I would tell the truth, I and everyone near me could pretty much end up badly later in life (in some situations, not all of them obviously).

Rsynced - November 7, 2019, 8:41 am

(Nov 7, 2019 09:34 AM)CH00k Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Conscience from doing that? Like a bad feeling?

Not anymore, I got pretty much used to it and now it's just a standard thing and I don't even think about it.

If I would tell the truth, I and everyone near me could pretty much end up badly later in life (in some situations, not all of them obviously).

Well I mean if you have a conscience than you are not a psychopath. I see your traits as survival skills. I am guessing you live in the US?

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 8:43 am

(Nov 7, 2019 09:41 AM)Rsynced Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well I mean if you have a conscience than you are not a psychopath. I see your traits as survival skills. I am guessing you live in the US?

I don't know if I have conscience that I'm psychopath or not. I don't know if I'm one, I'm pretty crazy in some ways. But I'm also not entirely sure what does having conscience not being psychopath means.

Also I'm not from the US but rather the EU.

Rsynced - November 7, 2019, 9:00 am

(Nov 7, 2019 09:43 AM)CH00k Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't know if I have conscience that I'm psychopath or not. I don't know if I'm one, I'm pretty crazy in some ways. But I'm also not entirely sure what does having conscience not being psychopath means.

Also I'm not from the US but rather the EU.

Psychopaths have no conscience or feelings and merely mimic emotions. They are always in everything to gain some sort of power over others. This is 365 24/7, not just a bad day or drunken binge.

Vuln - November 7, 2019, 9:12 am

It could also be side effects of a social anxiety disorder.

BTC - November 7, 2019, 9:19 am

Those who think they are crazy, generally are not crazy.

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 9:24 am

(Nov 7, 2019 10:12 AM)Vuln Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It could also be side effects of a social anxiety disorder. Might or might not be, I have had this ever since like 11 years but I don't think I had social anxiety disorder back then like I do have now.

(Nov 7, 2019 10:19 AM)BTC Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Those who think they are crazy, generally are not crazy. Not the first and probably not even the last time I hear this.

Generally I think I'm a freak and crazy person as I usually talk to people under many aliases as different person but I'm aware of all my actions and messages. It's not something I would be aware of but I call it as "I create protective personas" and I have many of them.

Some pose as spy some as "friend" and most of those personas are completely separated from each one. But as you said, I might just be completely normal right but who is normal in this world? What even is being normal, nothing like that exists.

iabm123 - November 7, 2019, 1:57 pm

You're not a psychopath and don't take this the wrong way but it sounds as though you're just very insecure and not comfortable in your own skin.

A big part of maturing, growing up, is being confident in yourself and always being yourself, regardless of who you are around.

You seem to be aware of what you are doing, so my advice to you would be just stop before this does start to manifest itself as something more serious.

Lindros - November 7, 2019, 2:00 pm

If you were a psychopath you probably would not be concerned by the fact. I'm a sociopath to some degree and I don't give a fuck.

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 2:29 pm

(Nov 7, 2019 02:57 PM)jibm123 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're not a psychopath and don't take this the wrong way but it sounds as though you're just very insecure and not comfortable in your own skin. A big part of maturing, growing up, is being confident in yourself and always being yourself, regardless of who you are around.

You seem to be aware of what you are doing, so my advice to you would be just stop before this does start to manifest itself as something more serious.

The thing is, I can't.

I'm just really crazy in this but literally I would end up in jail. I don't want to talk about this but literally lets say I'm gonna do who I really want to be and do, I would get arrested soon or later with 20 years here and maybe 50 in US...

It's unexplainable what I'm going through, my thoughts itself aren't illegal but the actions are and if I would share with someone my thoughts, I would become the most hated person in the room. As I would be categorised in the worst community that ever exist.

I was reading quora and they've said people like me, are the most hated group on the planet earth, you can only guess who really I'm and what are my thoughts but i'm not gonna confirm neither deny any of your guess.

Fuck the world, way too many problems here. Luckily able to control & manage them.

There is no reason to express myself unless I want to end up in depression and being hated by everyone, the city, the country..... :)

(Nov 7, 2019 03:00 PM)ZietzSeV Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you were a psychopath you probably would not be concerned by the fact. I'm a sociopath to some degree and I don't give a fugg. Probably, how does your sociopathism appear?

DO itD - November 7, 2019, 2:37 pm

Sam is interesting to watch.. sometimes he is called narzisst and other times psychopath.. interesting guy and very open with his psychology..

Unmasking Narcissists, Psychopaths, and Their Abuse with RUTH JACOBS in CAMBRIDGE, UK \(In the Booth\) - YouTube

Lindros - November 7, 2019, 2:43 pm

I just have very little empathy to those that are not in my immediate circle on average. I would say my emotions are more shallow then a lot of the people that are around me.

-itsJonny - November 7, 2019, 4:03 pm

Honestly I feel like it depends on what you're lying about.
Social engineering? That's part of the job.

If you're lying to just lie, like to family and friends, you're just an asshole not a psychopath ?

Slicky - November 7, 2019, 4:24 pm

[quu see a spote='BTC' pid='59124864' dateline='1573147151']
Those who think they are crazy, generally are not crazy.
[/quote]

hes correct but theres many mental disorders. thats why yoU see a brain Dr. Psychologist

Joel - November 7, 2019, 4:26 pm

This is by far the cringiest shit I have ever read in my life. And I feel extremely sorry for the people who took this seriously.

SIM-3257834 - November 7, 2019, 4:27 pm

The only thing I got from this thread is you're the type of stupid kid who thinks he's smart because he SE Mcdonalds a $1 soda. Trust me kid the mass majority are fucking sheeps, especially if you have an iphone and use socail media.

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 4:28 pm

(Nov 7, 2019 03:43 PM)ZietzSeV Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I just have very little empathy to those that are not in my immediate circle on average. I would say my emotions are more shallow then a lot of the people that are around me.

Wouldn't consider myself with little empathy.

I'm most of the time able to understand others, even if he has bad intentions, usually able to figure out why. It just feels like I can think from many point of views and eventually analyse his acting. As I've said, I went through a lot of struggle in my childhood so might be because of that too.

(Nov 7, 2019 05:03 PM)-itsJonny Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Honestly I feel like it depends on what you're lying about.

Social engineering? That's part of the job.

If you're lying to just lie, like to family and friends, you're just an asshole not a psychopath ? Well it really matters what is it about, what is the situation etc. If we talk about this social engineering kinda thing.

My sentences are usually like 50% truth and 50% lie and you are just not able to recognise it, otherwise I would consider myself as honest person that say everything as is. You won't 99% of the times recognise any of the lies, it's hard but even if there are going to be some concerns, it's usually not provable and you can't argue with me about it as it's simply not possible to be backed up, that will just be you assuming something. Again I can make up some backstory that will support me. (you == some person)

I can make up any reason, back story, argument / good response within seconds -- I've had this already when I was ~11, it was quiet scary, I went late to the class and I apologised that I was helping the janitor in school. Very confident and so I could easily avoid having an missed hour. ? My friends didn't understood but it always worked out.

Obviously, if they would snitch me, I would say that they are envious of me not going to the lecture and that we can go and ask the janitor ourselves (or something like that), and now the teacher usually believes me as I'm always saying the truth, well partly. On the other-side, if we would go to find the janitor, (never happens, teachers don't have time for that) I would just pray we won't catch him, making everything going in for so long. Eventually, we wouldn't find him, teacher again has no time for that and we would end up giving up.

Yes I'm usually never scared doing these things, very confident about it as I can convince my brain some how.

I do know how most people will react. Like literally so I know nothing wrong would possibly happen anyway and I expect the unexpected all the time.

Cartel - November 7, 2019, 4:28 pm

(Nov 7, 2019 10:19 AM)BTC Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Those who think they are crazy, generally are not crazy. This is what I got from this entirely.

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 4:35 pm

(Nov 7, 2019 05:26 PM)Joel Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is by far the cringiest Clay Davis I have ever read in my life. And I feel extremely sorry for the people who took this seriously.

Took seriously what? Now I do not understand if you are joking or no.

You could but you don't have to but I will assume you are serious and you think that I'm random troll on the internet.

You are not the first person that have said the same opinion as you, why don't you trust me? Most people simply just don't trust this cause they've never faced this in their lives.

I fully understand your opinion & reasons thought as you can't just imagine that or [insert your reason here whatever]

(Nov 7, 2019 05:27 PM)Cake Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The only thing I got from this thread is you're the type of stupid kid who thinks he's smart because he SE McDonalds a $1 soda. Trust me kid the mass majority are fugging sheeps, especially if you have an iphone and use socail media.

I don't think I'm a smart? When did I said that, I've never did. I've said that I've out-smarted some people but that doesn't mean I'm being smart in anyway. In-fact I wouldn't really say I'm smart, what is even the definition of someone being smart?

I don't need to SE clubs to let me in or get free soda.

And no, I don't have any social media except hackforums if that counts. I'm not interested in any bigger socialising than that, I'm not an open book and I share rarely things about me. I know most teenagers are usually sheeps and they do follow what is being said. Simply because they don't care, they don't have enough of evidence or knowledge or just because they don't want to look the odd ones joining discussions. At least that's my experience and those seems to be the most common.

Lindros - November 7, 2019, 5:10 pm

(Nov 7, 2019 05:28 PM)CH00k Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wouldn't consider myself with little empathy.

I'm most of the time able to understand others, even if he has bad intentions, usually able to figure out why. It just feels like I can think from many point of views and eventually analyse his acting. As I've said, I went through a lot of struggle in my childhood so might be because of that too.

Well it really matters what is it about, what is the situation etc. If we talk about this social engineering kinda thing.

My sentences are usually like 50% truth and 50% lie and you are just not able to recognise it, otherwise I would consider myself as honest person that say everything as is. You won't 99% of the times recognise any of the lies, it's hard but even if there are going to be some concerns, it's usually not provable and you can't argue with me about it as it's simply not possible to be backed up, that will just be you assuming something. Again I can make up some backstory that will support me. (you == some person)

I can make up any reason, back story, argument / good response within seconds -- I've had this already when I was ~11, it was quiet scary, I went late to the class and I apologised that I was helping the janitor in school. Very confident and so I could easily avoid having an missed hour. ? My friends didn't understood but it always worked out.

Obviously, if they would snitch me, I would say that they are envious of me not going to the lecture and that we can go and ask the janitor ourselves (or something like that), and now the teacher usually believes me as I'm always saying the truth, well partly. On the other-side, if we would go to find the janitor, (never happens, teachers don't have time for that) I would just pray we won't catch him, making everything going in for so long. Eventually, we wouldn't find him, teacher again has no time for that and we would end up giving up.

Yes I'm usually never scared doing these things, very confident about it as I can convince my brain some how.

I do know how most people will react. Like literally so I know nothing wrong would possibly happen anyway and I expect the unexpected all the time.

For instance if I drive past a bad car accident, I don't feel bad for the people. I actually get annoyed that they were so retarded to have crashed thus slowing me down with traffic. I feel like good riddance.

Ravioli - November 7, 2019, 6:21 pm

I don't fuck with labels personally. I'm probably 100 things, but that's what makes me who I am.

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 10:41 pm

(Nov 7, 2019 06:10 PM)ZietzSeV Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For instance if I drive past a bad car accident, I don't feel bad for the people. I actually get annoyed that they were so retarded to have crashed thus slowing me down with traffic. I feel like good riddance.

If I want to, I can get in place of high sensitive people, people with high empathy towards their family and people with no empathy like you.

I'm able to understand those three point of views at the same time. I'm sure you do too?

I wouldn't start crying for it but you are right they are just dumb for driving that fast not being able to handle it but as again depends entirely upon the situation. (That's what I personally think more though)

Lindros - November 7, 2019, 11:11 pm

(Nov 7, 2019 11:41 PM)CH00k Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If I want to, I can get in place of high sensitive people, people with high empathy towards their family and people with no empathy like you.

I'm able to understand those three point of views at the same time. I'm sure you do too?

I wouldn't start crying for it but you are right they are just dumb for driving that fast not being able to handle it but as again depends entirely upon the situation. (That's what I personally think more though)

Yes I certainly have empathy to some extent. It just is limited in how it extends to strangers. Like I don't hurt people because I know the potential risks of doing so and I also wouldn't gain enjoyment from it, I'm not a masochist..

However, I especially have little empathy for people that I do not like. Like if somebody I hated had terrible misfortune I would think it was hilarious. I thought that "Wallstreet Bets Yolo" situation was fucking hilarious.

It's not like I don't have emotions or can't relate to anyone. Hard to explain, I definitely don't think I fit any "textbook" definition. I have definitely felt bad for people in the past.

What is weird is I respect certain people that most people would entirely disdain.

CH00k - November 7, 2019, 11:26 pm

(Nov 8, 2019 12:11 AM)ZietzSeV Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes I certainly have empathy to some extent. It just is limited in how it extends to strangers. Like I don't hurt people because I know the potential risks of doing so and I also wouldn't gain enjoyment from it, I'm not a masochist..

However, I especially have little empathy for people that I do not like. Like if somebody I hated had terrible misfortune I would think it was hilarious. I thought that "Wallstreet Bets Yolo" situation was fugging hilarious.

It's not like I don't have emotions or can't relate to anyone. Hard to explain, I definitely don't think I fit any "textbook" definition. I have definitely felt bad for people in the past.

What is weird is I respect certain people that most people would entirely disdain.

More or less describes me.

I think i do have empathy and i'm able to feel as other person emotions but at the same time I'm like you.

Lindros - November 8, 2019, 12:18 am

(Nov 8, 2019 12:26 AM)CH00k Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) More or less describes me.

I think i do have empathy and i'm able to feel as other person emotions but at the same time I'm like you.

It could just be being raised with the internet honestly if you really think about it. We see so much shit it kind of desensitizes you to most things.

NebulousJay - November 8, 2019, 8:24 am

In my experience, people that fancy themselves as psychopaths are just romanticizing shitty, asocial behavior. I've met a lot of people that think they're smarter than everyone else that don't realize that most people see through it. The average person isn't going to call you out for lying to their face, but they will take note of it and change how they interact with you in the future.

CH00k - November 8, 2019, 4:39 pm

(Nov 8, 2019 01:18 AM)ZietzSeV Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It could just be being raised with the internet honestly if you really think about it. We see so much Clay Davis it kind of desensitizes you to most things.

I feel like, i've seen plenty of those gore videos already.

(Nov 8, 2019 09:24 AM)NebulousJay Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) In my experience, people that fancy themselves as psychopaths are just romanticizing shitty, asocial behavior. I've met a lot of people that think they're smarter than everyone else that don't realize that most people see through it. The average person isn't going to call you out for lying to their face, but they will take note of it and change how they interact with you in the future.

Quote:I've met a lot of people that think they're smarter than everyone else that don't realize that most people see through it.

People who eventually think that way are just stupid in my opinion.

That sounds spastic to me whoever has said that.

In my honest opinion, I don't think I'm smarter than everyone else, that's bullshit and I do know that some people might see through but I'm enough sure that not everyone and I can mostly figure out who has concerns and who not. Just the way they talk with you.

Quote:The average person isn't going to call you out for lying to their face, but they will take note of it and change how they interact with you in the future.

Haha, yeah right. That's why I keep things balanced. Part of the sentence is 100% right and the other is 100% lie. That way if you try to do some re-search you have serious doubts and mostly the 100% lie part is something you can't verify or something only small amount of people do know so you will have hard times verifying that information. If you know what I mean.

V?rt - November 8, 2019, 6:18 pm

Yeah, I tend to do some of the same things, like try to do stuff to see if I can get away with it, or what not. They say that technically that is psychotic tendencies. There's a Ted talk about it.

It's a story about how a guy lied and faked madness to get out of jail, but then got put in a psych ward and wouldn't hang out with the patients and was acting "normal" but they wouldn't let him out because he was showing psychotic tendencies still. It's an interesting watch.

Shockley - November 8, 2019, 7:45 pm

Dude!!! That's so sick bro!!!! It's not teenage angst, it's 100% sociopathy . I'm diagnosing u cuz ur so sick