Gone too soon, I still listen to a few of his songs.

Enjoyed the song he had with XXX too.

can't really respect anyone who had no concern for their own life and did drugs. Obviously he knew the risks, but still took them.

Sure you can; he tried to get out of the hole he was in but was in too deep. Through depression, highly addictive drugs and minimal support from his peers - he found success in the little time he was on this planet. Respect him or not, he did things you & I likely could never do.

Lil Peep died 2 years and 8 days ago, the posthumous release that OP posted in this thread is on his new album and tribute documentary.
