Thread: Halo Reach releasing for MCC

Halo Reach is dropping on December 3rd as the first release for the Master Chief Collection on Steam.

In order to play, you have to buy the MCC on steam for $40 USD and then get the Xbox Game Pass for PC which is $4.99 the first month, then $9.99 following each month after.

They said in their release that Halo: CE is the next one to be released early 2020. Who else is excited! I've been waiting on this for years! ? ?

Isn't halo mcc dead? I haven't tried in awhile but like a year ago I couldn't even find games really. I could but seemed dead.

From what it seems like, yeah unfortunately.

No clue, I haven't played it on Xbox at all. I've just been waiting for PC.

I'm hoping I'll be able to play it on PC since I bought it on console when it first launched. I'd assume that it will qualify for Xbox play anywhere unless they stingy and won't like it cross to PC. Console is booty I can't stand a controller unless I'm playing the switch.

Idk if they mean you have to sub or it's another way to play it. but either way, I'll be getting it Spoiler \(Click to View\)Halo: The Master Chief Collection is available for pre-order ($39.99USD) which includes Reach beginning Dec. 3 and will automatically update with the remaining titles as they launch next year. Halo: Reach, and the remaining titles within MCC for PC, can also be purchased à la carte ($9.99USD).

Looks to me it is going to be apart of Xbox Game Pass. You can choose to play the game (along with many others) for 9.99/m.
