Thread: Kids in my school think I'm an drug addict or alcoholic??

QuickPack0981 - November 19, 2019, 1:23 pm

I'm not even 18 and I go to this high school and they call me like I would be an drug addicting.

They must have figured out something or there is some rumour about me and they are like " you must be doing something, you must be smoking weed " I ask, why, haha I don't, their RESPONSE " Just look at your eyes, totally spaced out dude, you are totally fucked man"

Idk why are they like that, might be as-well that I don't sleep during the nights and I stare into walls, they don't trust me and think I'm high 24/7. I don't think it's that bad, maybe they are just over-exaggerating for unknown reason.

This other kid also told me to "Don't get drunk over the weekend, we know our people xD" i was like, "dude I don't do alcohol wtf?"

Really weird, I wonder what is their problem.

Embrace the role that society has placed on you, the only way to fix this is to mainline a pack of starburst in the bathroom during recess. Just kidding, do not value peoples' opinion that assume you are on drugs without knowing anything about you. This may seem difficult to do, but try to just laugh at them when they say this and do not say anything back. Many people are not creative and insecure; therefore, when they want to lash out at other people, they resort to ridiculous accusations like the one you discussed. Give it a few years and a large portion of your classmates will still be in your hometown and probably actually doing drugs.

Till I actually became a drug addict later on.

^ This guys an idiot

"Just accept it" pfft.. thats loser talk. Plain and simple.

Second point.

You do You.

Fu$k what others think or say, seriously, Its high school brotha.

I know it seems like the world NOW, but reality is, High schools Bull sh!t. Much more waits for you once your past those walls.

I know cause I said F*ck it to High school myself, dropped out and registered for college, and graded with a 92% average.

What they tell you now, you will realize are pacified lies to soften the reality of the world.

So end of the day, who cares what others think of you?

So long you can lie you head on your own pillow at end of day and be content with yourself, that is all that matters.

Did you not get the sarcasm after when I mentioned injecting starburst in the bathroom? Learn how to read before calling someone an idiot.
