Thread: Uber Eats/Rides services

Just a heads up on those Uber Eats/Rides Carts services. I almost never use Uber eats but I was at a friend's house and found a reputable seller(or so I thought) doing those at 40% off. So my friend gave him his cart and he placed the order. About 30 minutes later the driver was arriving and we were waiting for him by his door. Behind the driver was a cop car. The delivery driver and an officer both get out of their vehicles, and we thought the driver got pulled over. But sadly that's not the case. They both started walking towards the house, at this point we were freaking out trying to come up with an excuse.

We get a knock on my door & they start asking us If we just ordered Uber Eats and If we did they would like to have a word with us. we just denied everything and told them we didn't order anything. We asked them what happened and they said the uber account owner didn't order this and called the police since it was fraud.

In other words, becareful with all those services. You never know what could happen lol.

Yup, using those accs is basically fraud and asking for trouble. Same with any other stolen food acc.

Make sure you use this service from a reputed seller who are not doing any fraud and infact give all the proofs of the service, Look for vouches in my thread. :)

So you're not ordering using cracked accounts and people's credit cards saved on their accounts?

Please explain how else are you able to do discounts? You refund a real order and then use that credit for next order etc?

I use my own credit card. I have discounted coupons of 55% off on the food. You can look for vouches in my thread.

And these coupons are reusable unlimited times? Can you place an order with team viewer and show that you use coupons?

You can disconnect from team viewer when adding the coupon coz I understand you don't want anyone to know what the coupon is. Then connect back to show that order placed was with coupon.

If you can prove this, I can bring you orders in an insane volume.

If you can prove this, I can bring you orders in an insane volume. One coupon max per account. I can show that at last the coupon was used, because if i type the code it will show up in team viewer.

Also it is not some mad coupon which gives 100% off ? I pay a certain amount as well. I am doing this on very low profit.

Then it means I can teamviewer u and watch you type it in since the coupon is different for every account. Or if it's one coupon per account, how many accounts do you have, to be ordering for some many people. Your story doesn't make sense at all.

Yuo same shit can happen with dominos accounts. That's why you always pick up using the free pizzas at a location you dont frequent.

spiral - November 24, 2019, 4:31 pm buying shit like that is always gonna cause issues, i think services like that should just be completely banned

crixus - November 24, 2019, 4:38 pm

Who would risk for food I risk only few times and it was for 5 stars hotels all included vista With Expedia points ?

Evil - November 25, 2019, 1:02 am

Of course this is a thing. Me and doordash back when doordash was the cheap go to food service, we told everyone this. There are only a few who actually get discounts legitimately. Unfortunately, ubereats will end up being banned as well just like doordash because some people have to ruin it for others.

Also, why not put on blast the service that this occurred with?

Jay - November 25, 2019, 12:46 pm

Typically all food service deliveries at discount prices are like this, there's no really way to avoid it, including food accounts like mcdonalds and chickfila n stuff.
