Thread: Moving to Vegas

Xerotic - November 25, 2019, 8:21 am

1 Year Update: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=6124660>

Just a heads up to the community... I'm moving across the country (permanently, 2000 miles away to Vegas) within a week. It's been a very hectic month of planning and preparing and it'll be another hectic few weeks once I actually move. I've been working 7 days a week between HF and a second job as a restaurant server for a few months now and it really drains a person's energy. Normally I just work HF full time but I needed to save up some extra money to move and the second job was the best opportunity for it.

So my timeline is at less than a week until I move. I leave on Sunday, December 1st. It'll take about 4 days to drive there. It'll take some time to secure an apartment/house. So if I am a little slow to respond to messages over the next 2-3 weeks then I apologize. I try to respond when I can and as accurately as I can and of course I'll be creating new features and fixing bugs when I'm able to.

The good news is that soon I'll be living in the same city as Omniscent. If we accomplished all that we have in the past 18 months living across the country from each other then imagine what we will accomplish with the benefit of locality.

Thank you for your patience during this time.

Pain - November 25, 2019, 8:28 am

Good luck with everything, seems like the hard work of working 2 jobs is going to pay off soon.

Chevy - November 25, 2019, 8:29 am

Congratulations and I hope you enjoy your relocation! I've always had a dream of moving my life into a more activity-filled area, surrounding myself with the uniqueness that comes with Vegas. I'm ultimately jealous.

Moon Clown - November 25, 2019, 8:30 am

Best of luck on the move! Heard vegas was a nice warm place.

BreadMaker - November 25, 2019, 8:34 am

Best of luck man safe journey and keep up the good work!

Biggy - November 25, 2019, 8:37 am

That's pretty cool. Where will you be staying in the mean time until you secure an apartment? Also, if you don't mind me asking, was it just coincidence that you're moving near Omni or was that planned to be able to work together in an easier fashion?

Either way, best of luck with the moving process and hope you enjoy your new journey. Hopefully Steve isn't too sad to say bye as well. :)

Natas - November 25, 2019, 8:52 am

I wanna move to nevada is a dope ass state but I personally would love to go to Colorado or Arizona I would miss my family if I would move tho.

That is super cool tho man I hope you like it bro last time I was there was like 2003. I road a mule down the grand canyon in az I was only in vegas for like 2 days I went in that huge tower and saw the light show i remember it was hot af there but it was fun where are you moving from ? I hope you like it Xerotic drive safe bro !

That's pretty dope. I look forward to seeing the productivity improve due to the locality.

Best of luck in the move, I hope you really enjoy your new home and the benefits surrounding the move.

Best regards,
Zulu.

Omni finally pulling the trigger on an official HF team house in Las Vegas? Shit he should just kick out his kids and let you two move in with him rent free. Kappa.

For me the objective is making the move as minimalist as possible. I've gotten rid of all of my furniture already. The only thing I have left is my desk, chair, and bed. All 3 of which I'm holding for people until the day I leave. I'm going to fit whatever I can in my car. Whatever I can fit I am taking with me.

SIM-1729678 - November 25, 2019, 10:55 am

Best of luck with the move big boss. Hope Vegas suits you.

Personally when I was in Vegas it took me a while to get used to the dry heat. I mean, when I sniffed air up my nose I could just feel the warmth going through it.

You used to warm weather?

Omniscient - November 25, 2019, 11:00 am

Nice share.

A slight backstory, I bought Steve (Staff and Xero's roommate) and Xerotic a trip to Vegas. As I usually do with visitors I try to convince them to move to Vegas. The place they live isn't all that great tbh. Harsh winters and mostly small town living. Definitely more opportunity for both of them in Vegas.

With them here I may expand my business plans beyond HF. It will be much easier now. I really hope all goes well for them here. I'll do my best to help them with the transition.

Unexplained - November 25, 2019, 12:07 pm

This is really cool to hear! I absolutely love Vegas. And I feel like rent/housing is fairly reasonable as well. Lots of job opportunity as well out there.

Best of luck with the move and safe travels.

InspectorGadget - November 25, 2019, 12:19 pm

Good luck! Moving just 30 miles was enough for me, I can't imagine 2000. Make sure you get us pictures of the area, I find it so interesting :)

Bossk - November 25, 2019, 12:47 pm

Omg yes !

I want to genuinely salute you for the dedication that you have shown towards HF just during the time that I've been registered, I admire you and Omni a lot.

and thx for being cute in convo

Good luck in future bro

You can buy two houses in Vegas for the price of one on the east or west coast. $300k gets you a decent place. It's not that expensive if you avoid the tourist areas. Maybe it's expensive if you are into things like shooting howitzers at Battlefield Vegas and renting Lambos on the weekends, but I've been out to Vegas multiple times and never thought it to be too pricey.

Congrats Xerotic and Steve on the move. I'm sure it'll be great after the driving is over.

C++ - November 25, 2019, 3:09 pm

I hope this "Moving To Vegas" thread is not hidden message to us that Xerotic is now going to be in capture of omniscient to work for hf even more and 24/7.

We will find out in the future. Thanks

Did you help them find a place in Vegas and will they now be working for you exclusively?

Not sure if this was already the case but i'm just wondering.

Will these projects be part of HF or will they be completely seperated?

SoulZeh - November 25, 2019, 4:42 pm

Good luck with the move Xerotic, I'm sure it'll be a wonderful experience and I'm sure you'll enjoy Vegas (never been) but good luck.

+mK - November 25, 2019, 4:47 pm

Good luck on moving out there. I lived there for a couple of years towards the end of 2008 or so. Pretty nice place and it was ramping up pretty hard until foreclosures happened due to the market crash. Don't live by that fucking pig farm. Smells like shit for miles.

Correct, This will be the longest 4 day of your life.

Been there done it my self.

Back in 2004 when i left/moved from Phoenix, Arizona to Cleveland, OH it took me 4 days of driving

Yep! The same here, I loaded up my truck with just the things i needed. a duffel bag of things to ware/a computer/and 2000$ bucks in my pocket.

The 4 day drive sucked dick but the pay off 15 years later is well worth the risk.

Things are great now.

Unsure how common it is in the world but in USA we travel plenty and families move across states. America is vast and there are usually things like job opportunities or just better weather that causes people to move around. Sometimes people live in small towns and want the city life, but also vice-versa.

Where I live moving around is a very big thing + expensive as hell. Normally people stick to their home town for all of their lives. Or they move outside the country.

To be fair though, The Netherlands is so small that it rains in the whole country once it starts raining so moving for weather reasons etc isn't really a thing here.

Yup. I'm tired of 9 months of winter. It sucks. A lot of my friends were asking me "what's in Vegas?" I just respond with "What's here?"

I personally feel restless living in the same place for too long. It's nice to shake up life and see

Same goes here. Either u change the country/continent, or u stay in the same city. Some people move to the next bigger town, but that's about it

Darkwin - December 4, 2019, 2:13 pm

That question is asked a lot by people that don't live here. When I tell people I moved from NYC they seem to believe I was living in an amazing place and that moving to Vegas was a downgrade. It wasn't. Vegas is great.

Take a look at these luxury homes:

This is what living in Vegas looks like:

And in the summer you can go to pool parties like these:

<https://www.pinterest.com/vegascom/inside-vegas-pools-day-clubs/>

Not to mention California is just a 4-6 hour drive away. You can go to the Pacific Ocean or visit Disneyland for the weekend just paying for 2 tanks of gas.

And if you crave nature, we have Zion National Park just 2 1/2 hours away.

<https://www.nps.gov/zion/index.htm>

Or drive down to Lake Havasu.

Vegas lifestyle is awesome. So much to do here.

The standard of living is great. But I think you're wanting to know the cost of living. It's reasonable compared to other major cities.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Las_Vegas Some data is on the Wiki page.

Not everyone that moves here like it. From my experience the biggest complainers are those who don't make friends easy or people that miss their families. For the adventurous types that like new places or traveling it's fantastic. People here are generally friendly imho.

I always considered moving to the US, and LV more specifically because it's such a beautiful place. The Visa situation looks like it will make it very hard for me to move there though.

Las Vegas, Vancouver (Canada) and Grand Cayman (Cayman Islands) are on my shortlist and I am trying to keep my options open as I still have some time before I want to move, but it looks like I'll be moving to cayman for now. Been there a couple times and it is just so gorgeous and peaceful. Getting residency there is also much easier for me.

America is vast and there are usually things like job opportunities or just better weather that causes people to move around. Sometimes people live in small towns and want the city life, but also vice-versa.

It's pretty uncommon where I live, to be moving around states or provinces in Europe. The only reason people move away from their current house is if they have to - due to a job or study, else it's pretty common to just live where you were raised in that area, for the rest of your life.

I must say; Vegas looks stunning! I can't afford any of those luxurious houses but I'd dream and work to get there one day.

Although the USA isn't my dream destination - a few years of living in Vegas wouldn't hurt I think haha.

Great place, beautiful viewings! Thanks for sharing this.

Caymans are hard to get citizenship. You can get a work permit to reside there for up to 6 years I think. But only about 10k people have actual citizenship there.

Plenty of awesome homes are in the $250-350k range which with a decent job you can save for down-payment and get one after 3-5 years and afford it.

Being from Europe, visiting the US once a year, I can tell that Vegas is one of the coolest places I've went.

Florida is probably my second favorite to travel to though!

Good luck with the venture to Vegas, I'm sure you guys will enjoy it ?

Last time I went was a little stained by the fact I saw someone jump off the palms place 34th balcony while I was down at the pool (they landed in the pool) ???

Ended up getting my entire trip refunded

Vegas is pretty awesome. I've lived here my entire life.

We've now gained some big improvements to the city (Raiders stadium and T-Mobile arena with VGK).

Some others are on the way (the MSG Sphere)

House prices are going up and the economy here is doing pretty well.

The only thing I would be worried about is me getting sick of the heat lol. I summer but I also love my hoodies.
