Thread: Vegan Woman files lawsuit against meat eating neighbors for barbecue smell

A little bit old but I thought this was totally insane!

"A vegan woman filed a lawsuit against her meat-cooking neighbours, and now a cookout has been planned in her honour — right outside her home."

"It's deliberate. All I can smell is fish," she told the local broadcast station. "I can't enjoy my backyard."

"It's been devastating, it's been turmoil, it's been unrest," she continued. "I haven't been able to sleep."

The court keeps dismissing her case obviously but she says she will keep trying.

It's not just the meat smell, she demands that they should reduce patio lighting, silence their pets and replace plants in garden. She was also annoyed by their kids playing basketball.

This lady is just a complainer and must be miserable.

Lots of more information at the source, I just skimmed over the more important details.

Vegans are such retards. This really doesn't surprise me at all.
