Nice pictures. What camera/lens are you using?

The first two pictures and the last one caught my eye. I like how you're working with the reflection of the sun, it's always fun to do that.

The last picture is my favourite though, it's like 2 worlds. Like in a lot of artwork and pictures, you can see the light meaning good things will come. It's kinda giving me those vibes.

I truly love nature pictures, although I'm a bit disappointed that the monster of Lochness was just a harmless duck haha.

All jokes aside, I honestly appreciate and love looking at nature pictures. Especially sun rises, sunsets and photo's of the stars.

Indeed looks great! Where did you take them?

vyactor - December 3, 2019, 5:43 pm

Looks dope. Which device did you used to take these photos?

Cap Talk - December 3, 2019, 5:44 pm

Absolutely amazing. Keep it up!

When you edit in post try not to saturate the blues so much.

Also, when you create a chromatic aberration effect try to blend them together to make it stand out less.

-the background should stand out less than your foreground

Try those tips
