Thread: Has anyone won the 0.005% winning on a scratchcard?

spiral - December 4, 2019, 3:51 pm

Just interested to know if anyone has actually won the 0.005% chance of either 625k bytes or 250k bytes on the $10/25 scratch card?

Are scratch cards even worth it? I haven't even looked into them. Any chance at 100% winners?

I bought the $100 card and got two because its buy one get one free, and got $150 worth of bytes. So if you are lucky, yeah it is worth it. If you spend $100 right now, the lowest you can get is $50, so its not too bad.

Gotcha.. So they are comparable to real life scratch offs. Sometime you'll lose and sometimes you'll win.

you can see the odds if you press on the trophy next to the price.

I only know of one member who won the 100,000 bytes just days ago. His name was HQIT and he was very generous and donated 100 bytes to me :) Haven't heard of other winners of that level.

Debatable. I've probably spent $4k total on bytes and lost them all.
