Thread: 10 freaking years...

SirAlex - December 9, 2019, 3:04 pm

WTF so I just realised I have been a member here for over 10 years, thats crazy! ?

I have by no means been active for the full 10 years. I Literally only joined this site so I could read a tutorial but I kept coming back to read more tutorials and have just been pretty much a lurking member here for the longest time posting very rarely, most days I simply come to the site for the sake of coming and to see whats new and whats changed..

A lot has changed over the years, its great to see the site evolve the way it has. Like I remember when there was a "vouch" system being worked on for the longest time (Literally years) and now we have B-Ratings. These last couple of years in particular have been great in terms of moving forward and that's all down to Omni and his team and the hard work they all must put in!

No one is gonna read this but I thought I would make a rare short post to celebrate my 10 years of lurking in the shadows!

Ha, same buddy! Was a long time lurker before posting or contributing anything here. HF definitely helped shape a part of who I am.

I'll be 10 in July, too.

Cooligan - December 9, 2019, 6:25 pm

I read it, huge congrats on your 10 year celebration mark, that's a very long time.

You should really dive into HF's new features and systems, features like the Hack Game and Sportsbook are SO addicting and very fun to play.

There's really something for everyone on HF now.

I recently hit 8 years. I remember waiting on that market vouch system too. Glad they finally got one up and running. Seems to be working out well so far.

eXceptional - December 9, 2019, 9:22 pm

Your thread count and post count are too low. Looks like you post only for yourself.

Buckle-up and be a little more active. I'm sure there will be 100's more reading then.
