Thread: anyone with borderline personality disorder?

duck - December 10, 2019, 11:47 am

Recently I bought a e-book myself about it and i was reading it, i've interviewed few people, joined few discussions and tbh i can relate to 99% of the things. Seems I don't have it that serve like some other individuals do but I do have shit ton of traits here.

Self-diagnosis is very inaccurate; but anyone with bpd here?

BPD is kinda like bipolar disorder without the psychosis, and less lengthy in the moods. Mental illness is basically a spectrum with BPD being close to bipolar and bipolar being even closer to schizophrenia. Idk man its possible, a lot of people are on the autism spectrum and dont even realize it and probably never will. I wouldn't start labeling yourself unless its causing you problems that you can't do anything about no matter how hard you tried the majority of the members on the forum has both bpd while being extremely introverted

this would be the place for you

I have a couple good friends with the diagnosis.

I'd suggest going to a professional, and don't forget it's possible to have traits of any given disorder without meeting the standards for a full-blown disorder.

People with borderline personality disorder (BPD) tend to have major difficulties with relationships, especially with those closest to them. Their wild mood swings, angry outbursts, chronic abandonment fears, and impulsive and irrational behaviors can leave loved ones feeling helpless, abused, and off
