Thread: isn't this a brilliant idea for a hacking prank?

randomFunParty - December 13, 2019, 9:56 am

I'm not planning on doing this myself but I just am wondering something.

So you know how schools have WPA2 Enterprise WiFi to prevent hacking at school? I don't have the skills to do this but what would happen if a bunch of hackers got together with WiFi Pineapple Tetras in different schools in the same country hopefully or even the same state and all decided to make giant Fake APs at different schools?

Lets say for example they did this in New York or Pennsylvania or something? Then let's say they take user IDs from staff and MAC address from school computer. Then use Tor/VPN etc obviously to hack.

Wouldn't that create a panic at schools? It could theoretically end the user ID system on school wifi just as a prank.

Brilliant right?

I think a bunch of people should get together and do this.

Here's how it would work:

1. use Hak5's WiFi Pineapple Tetra to steal user IDs from school
2. get employee user IDs not just students
3. get a new MAC address from a school computer
4. turn on Tor/VPN
5. hack
6. keep hacking every day with a different user ID because you should have many by now collected from step 1
7. wait for the school system to run into an emergency where loads of staff are being blamed for crimes and the only solution is to end the user ID system

Brilliant right?

I'd imagine u'd need to connect to the company VPN to even use the user id system.
probably not though :3

Bad idea all of it, you should rethink your life and what you want to do.

I am probably not gonna do it but wouldn't that be fun?

You know what's more fun? Jail and prison food and fighting. Hopefully you hit a "No Hands Policy" where fighting isn't allowed only stabbing. That shit is fun! Forget school get into prison instead. You get to take a shower with a bunch of dudes, sounds like lots of fun right? Then you can come up with pranks for the guards, I'll give you one free prank

- 1) Flood your cell
- 2) Have a lamp with no light bulb or a live wire ready
- 3) Start banging on your cell door for help
- 4) When guard shows up grabs your door stand on your bunk and throw the live wire in

Now just wait for the guards to prank you right back by putting you in the hole and beating you for the next few weeks.

Now seriously does that sound remotely funny or fun? I can tell you to some people it sure is fun, you are not one. Yet you are not talking about a prank, instead you are talking about crime. I know that I may just be a bit old and pranks were harmless, people had a good laugh no one got hurt no crimes involved. I think you are not exactly understanding how much trouble you would end up in for the proposed "pranks". Look if you want to do criminal crap go for it but know, what I wrote above is crap that really happens in prison, more than enough members here have been arrested and each one is a loss to the community.

Point taken. I will not do this.

I think bug bounty hunting would be a better decision. I wish I could remove my thread, lol.
