Thread: Editing Old Threads?

mvmt - December 14, 2019, 4:13 pm

I have a thread for a service I've been running since May and it seems I can no longer edit the thread (<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5970974>). I need to be able to edit this thread so I can change outdated information, what am I supposed to do? Not really sure why this is a feature.

Do I just make a new thread? If so, what am I supposed to do about the 30+ contracts associated with this thread? My students regularly post updates on the thread with their progress. This is kind of a pain and I'm not sure what the logic is behind this setup.

Click the green rocket at the top right of the thread. It offers a few options to allow you to edit the thread once you have exceeded the time limitation.

Here is the logic behind it: You profit from your sales on HF so a sales tag, forum sticky, or vendor status provides you additional control as a marketer and in turn helps HF. Your $170,000 monthly sales ought to be able to get you a sales tag or two.

This is the answer I was looking for, was not aware I had to pay for these features.

But thanks for the smartass remark too

A 15-second search could have found those and he wouldn't have got a smartass answer ?
