

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: When the humans will destroy the planet?

Linux X - January 3, 2020, 3:52 am

When the humans will destroy the planet? Every single day, people become more greedy. The money is the most important thing in their life. They will do everything to get this money. But if you destroy the nature then you can buy it again. For example in Africa is missing so many animal kinds and won't see them. We can only read about them in the books and the encyclopedias.

duplex - January 3, 2020, 3:54 am

In my honest opinion. Very quick.

Vyrkfrir - January 3, 2020, 6:10 am

Definitely within 500 years (my own opinion) unless drastic changes are made (of which many great new ideas are coming to fruition without going full envirocuck), although it seems very possible it could come a lot sooner within 100.

Scary things, good thing I cbf reproducing and bringing another creature into this bullshit existence.

Dhoroty - January 3, 2020, 6:24 am

Just look around. It is already done.

It is already the death agony of the planet, the end is sure.

Linux X - January 3, 2020, 6:35 am

(Jan 3, 2020 07:24 AM)Dhoroty Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just look around. It is already done.

It is already the death agony of the planet, the end is sure.

Yes, its started but when will be then?

Elweth - January 3, 2020, 6:38 am

In the next 50-100 years, we're already on the brink. Just takes time for karma to develop.

Dhoroty - January 3, 2020, 6:41 am

(Jan 3, 2020 07:35 AM)? GRAPHIC PLEASURE ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, its started but when will be then?

It's after the point, where it can recover, so the real end was already passed. (if we talk about the Earth as we know it).

If we can accept a new Earth, we won't kill it. The now livings will extinct, but new ones will come.

Life always find it's ways.

Tintin - January 3, 2020, 6:42 am

Are we going to actually see a Jurassic Park'esque of bringing back old species? And human cloning. This looks like SciFi but in a few decades it'll probably be common place.

Seagulls - January 3, 2020, 6:45 am

Umm a days/few weeks from now when Trump sends a nuke over to Iran.

LOBGang - January 3, 2020, 7:25 am

I heard somewhere that because of global warming we won't even make it to 2020.

SyrupSplashin - January 3, 2020, 7:41 am

We won't destroy this planet, we can't. We'll just make it so we can't live on it. The earth and the life on it will continue to exist, we'll just be one of the species to die as the changes occur

Orhan Chowdhury - January 3, 2020, 8:53 am

I think Probably within the next 200 or so years. Meat will apparently run out by 2100 and i imagine the world would quickly descend into hell with our primary source of food gone.

Fish - January 3, 2020, 9:04 am

I believe it is possible, but not in my lifetime or my kids life time

Linux X - January 3, 2020, 1:31 pm

(Jan 3, 2020 02:27 PM)php Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't think we will destroy anything but the ecosystem in which we rely on.

This planet will survive much longer than us.

ye the planet will survive but what about the humans and the animals? In the end, it will have only few insects lol.

RedCupcake - January 3, 2020, 1:36 pm

As many things die, new are born. I think we focus too much on the negativity in the world rather the positive things. If the world ends then something new will begin again.

Juks - January 3, 2020, 1:49 pm

I worry for the next generation, but i don't think it'll end in any of our lifetimes.

Never know though i guess right.

Aeowulf - January 3, 2020, 2:16 pm

I'm thinking in about 100 years, life is going to be pretty shitty for those that aren't rich. The world is going to be... a shithole.

Balko - January 3, 2020, 2:41 pm

(Jan 3, 2020 03:16 PM)Aeowulf Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm thinking in about 100 years, life is going to be pretty shitty for those that aren't rich. The world is going to be... a shithole.

I agree, think we got about 100 years to go before all this fuckery caves in on us.

Joel - January 4, 2020, 2:46 am

Honestly fuck the environment. I'm out here trying to get paper. This isn't for us to worry about.