Thread: Does Chaturbate pay it's affiliates?

bwelt34 - January 3, 2020, 10:39 am

I have known about chaturbate's affiliate program for a while but it seemed a bit sketchy. The pay is too good to be true and sometimes it doesn't couldn't the sign-ups. Did any of you get money from chaturbate affiliate program? Is it legit? Thanks for your answers :)

I 've made $1.3k so far. Avoid pay per lead. Choose revenue share. It's much better.

So what is the method toward Chaturbates? Is it easy to get paid? Can setup multiple accounts with little to no personal information? because it's kind of easy to set up a server And went all the E-whore stuff off it.

Does anyone can give an idea on how to start earning with chaturbate? That would be great.

Yeah, they have alot of traffic. Chaturbate has 340 M traffic per month , best way is revenue share you get people to sign-up through your email and you get paid %20 what they spent. People make thousands of dollars monthly even some of them daily , I've seen a member from another forum he made $134k in a year and lives off Chaturbate. That would be my next method after I make some money with CPA, you need good traffic that converts, if you get approx 10 Whales (horny single men with money and a pc) that will spent on cam-girls private shows and that will be a Lifetime revenue share so as long as they stay there and spent monthly you will be paid. There are many ways to do this with Free-traffic and also paid, lurk around forums look for methods you can get traffic from Social Media (twitter,fb,insta etc..) some are doing it in Youtube also, whatever you get your hands on free traffic and direct em to a good landing page and next to the offer, it will take time for them to start spending but that's passive income.

Hope this is a short guide to help somebody start making something out of it,

Cheers
