Thread: [\[2020\] How Do I:- Grow an Instagram Stat](#)

iTHX - January 3, 2020, 5:23 pm

For those wondering "Why so much content?!": Leave your brand spanking new Instagram stat page tips down below!

Hello social media Kings and Queens of Hackforums!

Over the past, and before I was really even a part of this community I have run pages, but only for my own happiness. These pages would only gather a few hundred to a few thousand followers. I am looking to now average into at least the thousands.

What do I know so far? I know a lot of the common information that is drilled into your head, effective use of hashtags, the trending page et cetera - but I would like to hear your tips!

If you have any up to data tricks and methods, please leave them below. Depending on how this thread will go, I may turn this into a data-bank for those intending in getting into the stat Instagram 'community'.

In spite of the fact that this thread is not meant to be specific to the OP (me), I would like to make the point that I have both time and enough money on my hands to consistently post a lot of content and buy the occasional advertisement.

What I recently learned: follow/unfollow doesn't work as effectively as before and there are big new limits from instagram

I thought using hashtags was lame, until I did tests and saw the huge reach percentage of non-followers when using a combination of big, medium and small hashtags
