Thread: \(\$150 Revenue\) Towel Hangers Store for Dropshipping - www.microhanger.com

Bulletbling1 - January 8, 2020, 11:32 am

Selling my latest towel hangers shopify store for dropshipping. Has 5,000+ orders on AliExpress, with 50-100 quantity sold per day on there. When sold per day is above 1%, you know it has potential for dropshipping. I currently have $150 in revenue from 7 orders over the course of the last several days.

Did a little with Facebook ads, and while I'm starting to get the hang of Facebook ads (this is only my second attempt), I still have learning to do. Just trying to recoup costs as I learn marketing for various products.

Includes everything associated with the website...marketing video, Facebook pixel account, website, apps, etc.

PM me offers.

What is your bottom line for this?

Not sure really. I don't usually sell websites as I'm very new to trying Facebook ads. It has over $100 in Facebook pixel data so it's worth at least that. Would $200 sound reasonable?

Is the Dropshipping automated or do you manually do the orders?

Currently done via Oberlo, so semi automated (one click order fulfillment). Most suppliers will do csv dropshipping if store is scaled. So it can be completely automated if that's the route to take.

Thanks for the offer! We'll see if some PM's or replies come my way. Looking to sell in next few days or week maybe so we'll see what happens. Just enjoying testing out Facebook ads to see what does and doesn't work in various categories without losing lots of money. Haha.
