Thread: HACKFORUMS AND THE FAKE VOUCHES

George Shelby - January 16, 2020, 2:18 pm

Here is how the HF marketplace works with all these fake vouches and reviews. The user edited his post in my thread but every member but every staff member can see what he wrote (he vouch for my thread)

Here is our conversation of where he is making me invest in his projects after showeing him that I hold more than 3 BTC.

Be aware when dealing in the marketplace - ignore the vouches. I am talking to the newer members in the site (that are the victims here) - there are crews of member who fakevouch for eachother and scam people by this way. Here is an example of one of them

Look at this fake fuck, as u can see vouch was fake but it was an attempt to take this retards money and i wouldve deleted vouch and gave the money back to all the people who actually need it and were affected. THIS russian retard creates multiple accounts on HF and scams ppl i have HELLA proof, if you need proof PM me. Other than that idgaf what anybody thinks. Ive been a good ass member on this forum and never took a dime or fake vouched for anyone. He tried to blackmail me saying hes going to post this conversation and i should send him money, if anybody actually falls for his blackmailing russian shit then u should be scammed. HHAHAA im dead i cant and also beware HF is now getting more and more full of scammers.

also in the pics u can see he left out a lot (i wonder why) but honestly im done.

Man, don't even waste your time replying to this nonsense. It's not worth it for one, and to add on to this, you both should be having a private conversation in regards to this. I only say that because you are basically getting baited into making LQP's. I realize that you want other people to hear your side of the story, and that goes for both of you, but doing it here is kinda immature. I got respect for Blazius somewhat, based off of what I've witnessed so far and as for the OP, why start even more drama? We both know this isn't about you trying to warn other people. You just wanna call him out. I get it. That's all fine and dandy, but shit like this makes the forum look bad.

Also, thanks for the tip in regards to these scammers. I have actually came across a few myself after doing some digging, but I am not a snitch.

I'm not mad, it was just funny you tried to sell me something that's not yours without permission of original author. That's scamming in the first place so why would anyone be surprised you fake vouched for money when you're a scum.

Obviously you needed money and $600 seems like a nice sum. You're too lazy to learn new skills that you can later monetize it seems.

The thing is, you could've done anything except posting that vouch waiting for him to pay you. You could've exposed him the moment he tried to bribe you - that way you would help members. Instead, you posted a fake vouch and waited patiently for his payment. I'm not sure, but I think your vouch wasn't edited before you realized he scammed you and that's the saddest part.

I won't continue this drama as I've said everything in this post.

There are alot of users that are intersted in keeping the forum legit and valueable. It wouldnt take too long until the market part of the forum becomes completly trash with this. Then when there is just a small group of people controlling the whole market, pushing each other - so that they can bring every little Davis on the market and no other valid hq product by any other member can be deployed because it would be trashed to the bottom - or they need to sell it to the group for a apple. Because of this and other reasons is why overall the community is interested into exposing rats that fake ratings, vouches and stuff.

users here are about gaining an advantage via scamming etc. this is not a forum with morals at all. users here look for a quick way to make a buck daily. just look at dd section. if there was stricter rules in place from the get go then probably so. as of course every forum has scamming as not possible to stop all but the levels users go to here to scam and gain in advantage is utter bs. and its

because they are all enabled to do it. the reward outrisks any punishment they could get. if they get one at all. as you cant expect users to play by rules when the rules are half assed. would of been like reddit saying we allow blackhat methods on here then stopped allowing them. but no instead they always had not allowed it. same with here. at one time fake vouches were not frowned upon and now they are with contracts etc but sellers are still in mindset that they need fake vouches to get sales or want this site the old way it was and will do business offsite to get it back to that way. as been shown in thread. some old ub3r fag that knows not to fake vouch but yet accepted funds just to fake vouch cause he broke boy living in his granny's basement and needed the money to buy a new gameboy.

You are both acting like childish retards. Not to mention that one of the main arguments was about people seeing Blazius' vouch and believing it while at the same time just taking his word for it. A reasonable thing to assume is that he planned to keep the vouch up and fuck everything off, and now he's using this as a get out of jail free card.
