

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Hey hey hey I'm a new kid on the block...

MissDLove187 - January 20, 2020, 3:41 am

[font=Georgia]Hey every one just wanted to introduce myself I'm Danny or Dee what ever you wanna call me is cool with me as long as its within reason lol but anyways I stumbled onto this site while searching the net and was really interested in trying to get more involved with the site and what all it offers so a little more about me just to get a idea about who I am so... Like I said my names Danny and I'm a 32 yr old female from Washington I lived in Washington my whole life, I am currently not very experienced with hacking but have a great amount of interest in trying to learn more I am very good with picking up new things very fast and take directions pretty well, I consider myself a chick of all trades and most people who know me would agree with that I have a pretty good ability to do just about anything that I want and am very handy and tend to like to do everything myself which also makes me to be a pretty stubborn person but its not always something that make things difficult usually when I chose to be stubborn about something it has resulted in alot of pretty good outcomes for me so I'm okay with it, but anyways I really would like to find someone who might be interested in spending a little time working with me trying to help me become more familiar with hacking and the use of it I really would love to learn and if I could find someone whos willing to take a little time to maybe help me out some I would be more then happy to be a good learner and hopefully we could make a pretty positive situation of it. I currently am not working and havent worked a legit job in quite sometime now I got myself involved in the less legal kind of means of making a income for many years which ended up making life for me pretty hard and it also took its toll on my legal reputation as well as my overall self as a person and so now I am just trying pretty hard to salvage my life and start over at the age of 32 and thats something that is not easy at all so needless to say I learned the hard way that choosing to do illegal things to make some money isnt really the greatest life choice nor is it worth all that comes with it the money was never enough and it was always gone just as fast as it came and after some time I was totally surrounded by only people who I couldnt trust and I had no friends anymore just customers and it was just a pretty ugly thing to have to understand that I had made it so that all that I knew and was surrounded by was just a bunch of bad and unstable things that I was pretty disappointed with myself for ever allowing myself to let it get so outta hand before i knew it many years had passed and I was so far in the hole as far as the mess i had made of my life that too try to go back was something near a fairy tale story so I am now just trying to find things that I'm good at doing or like to do that are legal that I can try to get better at and possibly turn into something that maybe I can do as a job and so I am very hopeful that maybe something with computers is a good choice for me and I hope to find a job working from home doing something that would involve working with my computer so as I said if anyones interested in maybe showing me a few things and helping me to learn some new stuff please feel free to get ahold of me and I would love to see if we can maybe make something good outta our getting to know one another a littke better so please feel free to reach out to me and if you have any questions then I'm happy to try and answer them and other then that I'm just happy to be a new member and I look forward to getting more acquainted with things here so hope to hear back from some of you all soon and have a good one...

IgnobleEntity - January 20, 2020, 3:50 am

Quote:but anyways I really would like to find someone who might be interested in spending a little time working with me trying to help me become more familiar with hacking and the use of it I really would love to learn and if I could find someone whos willing to take a little time to maybe help me out some I would be more then happy to be a good learner and hopefully we could make a pretty positive situation of it. So youre looking for someone who will spend significant amount of his time on helping you for free just because you exist?

Quote:I currently am not working and havent worked a legit job in quite sometime now I got myself involved in the less legal kind of means of making a income for many years which ended up making life for me pretty hard and it also took its toll on my legal reputation as well as my overall self as a person and so now I am just trying pretty hard to salvage my life and start over at the age of 32

In other words you achieved nothing in 32 years of your life and now you think you can make money on hacking and looking for person who will help you. Lmao. "Jack of all trades" yeah right youre not only not gonna make money on hacking but also I get computer-illiterate vibes from you. learn how to space text to make it easy to read