Thread: Ton of people left wuhan day before it was locked due to chinese new years eve

if you dont know or dont believe the situation, then If you checked twitter or youtube by filter "newest"/"latest" you would see ton of videos of people collapsing and dying. few videos reported 90k-100k+ infections

i honestly think it will spread quickly to usa and europe. and whole china is in really big trouble. they dont control it. as of Wuhan, the source of virus (at least thats what they say), people knew nothing at 22,23,and at 24 and 25th january everyone was already wearing masks, hospitals were full and people were dying on streets heres the tweet i talked about:

lot of posts online say to not take it lightly but its actually very serious. we can assume a lot of these guys who left one day before wuhan was lockd were infected. and they are spreading it further.

the virus has (reported) about 2-5% mortality rate so out of 100 people only 5 will die but i think its waaaaay more dangerous than that. also you never now if the virus wont mutate further and its mortality rate will increase

Yeah, I don't blame them to be honest. That's tragic. I'm hoping they just don't spread it into other places.
