Thread: Add bytes to contract payment options

Just the thread title. Sad not seeing it there.

Yeah I think it's about time it gets added =)

Well, Bytes aren't a form of currency, so maybe that's why they weren't added to that list.

And regarding contracts, Bytes are more of a product to be bought, sold, and traded, not a currency to pay with :)

Deal Disputes

Because he didn't run a contract and the "scam" went exactly as I described.

Something that is bought/sold/traded is something that can be a currency.

I agree with this idea. Even though it's not considered as currency, Bytes can be considered as an asset which can be used for bartering with products/services sold here.

Pick exchanging role -> Other -> Type bytes -> type amount. Done.

No, I am not going to do this. Bytes are internal rewards system for members. It's not a currency or a store of value or anything measurable to money. If members trade them for something of value that's between them but our official HF Contracts system will not have Bytes.

I think it's a great idea I'd love to use, but Omni, unfortunately, thinks otherwise.

Thank you for the response! :) Will close the thread now.
