

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How eWhore changed my life. My journey to financial freedom.

Timotev - January 27, 2020, 2:54 am

This won't be an usual post bragging about how much I made in x days. This will be a long post on how eWhore impacted my life and what I plan on doing next, with the hope of motivating others for the better. Sorry for any grammatical mistakes you'll encounter, I'm not native.

I'm 18 and still live with my parents. My dad used to have lots of money till he didn't. We went into bankruptcy 6 years ago and we still struggle to this day. I could never afford the fancy clothes my friends had and neither clubbing every weekend, going on trips and so on. I was pretty down emotionally. I grew up used to be rich to having nothing. I couldn't get a job in the real life since I have all of my finals this year.

Six months ago, while searching through a streetwear subreddit I found a post made by someone asking "how do you make money for your clothes". Someone simply said "eWhoring".

I started my research and that's when I came across HF. I never was a techy person and had zero interest in blackhat activities, hacking and so on. However I saw this as a quick and easy way to make money online. I started reading some free basic guides and found myself eWhoring on some overly saturated adult sites. As you probably expect I made nothing. I realized soon that I need to invest in knowledge as in any other business if I plan on having success. I had no money at the time, I borrowed 100$ from a friend (had no clue if I could return that) and bought an eBook, a cheap pack and I was ready to go.

The first days were frustrating as hell. I asked for help wherever I could. HF, other forums, Discord, many many people. I started earning in no time. My first money earned by myself and only by myself. 6 months forward and I earn somewhere between 400-500$ per week. More or less. I was pretty inconsistent lately. I'm sure if I'd hustle harder I could score more.

My life changed dramatically till then. I can now afford buying gifts for my parents, spoiling my girlfriend, delight myself with nice food, better clothes and expensive sneakers. My relationships with my loved ones drastically improved. By having money I was a better person. Less stressed, less nervous.

I was so overwhelmed by this turn that my life took that I never saved any money. Can't blame myself, i'm sure many in my situation would do the same. However I'm now planning to save some money, rent some apartments and list them on AirBnB. After I'm done with my finals I'll sign up to some croupier school and work in the casino for some time so I can save more money. I want to invest in Real Estate as much as i can, that's how I see my future headed at.

Many people disconsider eWhoring, but I see it as an easy opportunity to get out of a situation with no end. I'm thankful for all of this, most of us don't realize how easy is it to make money online these days and the opportunity we've been given.

I hope this will inspire others in following their dreams. There's always light at the end of the tunnel.

keztbeguru - January 27, 2020, 3:20 am

Impressive, stick at it buddy. I love how you are already considering investing shows that you have a real business mind, properties will only benefit you in future life once you have a couple of properties you are set for life.

Dont give up.

WalterE - January 27, 2020, 7:59 am

Good job, man! Remember that you should pay taxes on it if you're making a few hundred a week, especially when you're planning on renting a place.

Cyam - January 27, 2020, 4:32 pm

Nice job buddy, keep hustling and make sure to update us! ?

@483814

Treadstone - January 27, 2020, 8:43 pm

Smart kid thinking ahead of time, best of luck.

vad0x - January 27, 2020, 8:51 pm

Wow who knew pretending to be a girl and looking at dicks all the time could get you this much, congrats man. Keep striving for the financial freedom, i heard its glorious on the other side ;)

SweetTs - January 27, 2020, 9:27 pm

(Jan 27, 2020 09:51 PM)Blazius Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Wow who knew pretending to be a girl and looking at dicks all the time could get you this much, congrats man. Keep striving for the financial freedom, i heard its glorious on the other side ;)

? ? this is always what I think of from the start when I start thinking about EWhoring lol. I just couldnt bring myself to talk to guys like a female lol. But no hate on those that can at all.

Congrats OP, Sounds like you got figured out, if youre not bullshitting itsfree andalways - February 5, 2020, 9:30 am

Can you tell me what you invested with your $100?

Vagues - February 5, 2020, 11:33 am

Congratulations, as a former eWhorer myself, I just left that.

No I did not look at any male genitalia, nobody ever sent it I had my ways to rake in customers without that. But I just always felt so much disgust with every dollar that flowed into my bank account, and I was honestly getting tired of pretending to be someone who I wasn't even if it was for good money.

I got an actual job for one, which pulled me out of the business, a job that I could earn skills and experiences the world actually needed.

bnk500 - February 5, 2020, 12:49 pm

Great story and great thing to hear! I think ewhoring is a really good and easy way of making money too, especially for younger people but ofcourse a consistent job would be better, atleast in my country but ewhoring is great too! Can be fantastic if you are very good at it, but as said im glad to hear you are doing good now, and ewhoring helped me out too back when i was 16.

Veninu - February 19, 2020, 3:52 am

I feel you because I'm in the same situation as you were and trying to get out of it.

Hopefully one day I'll get out of it and get a better life.

Also thank you for sharing your journey and inspiring me!