Thread: Closing Disputes?

Is it possible to get a dispute closed when the member who raised the dispute was outed as the scamming party, and has since ditched their account? I have two negative feedback ratings after a year of steady selling, and they were both scammers who were caught out during the dispute process, either admitting to acting maliciously or by exposing their intentions through messages to other members etc, but one still has an open dispute against me which is preventing me from getting more sales and or getting into groups that I would be otherwise okay to join.

Ahh okay, I'll check that out then. I had assumed there would be some kind of function to report fake ratings but couldn't find anything about it. Thanks!

I think Omni marks them as invalid.
