Thread: Do you visit only English websites?

Geass - February 2, 2020, 2:31 am

I was wondering you guys visit only English websites or in your countries websites too?
What I mean for example from Germany with de domain
That is exception for people who know only English

Nate - February 2, 2020, 2:36 am

Yeah, because I cant understand shit.

Takehito Morokuzu - February 2, 2020, 3:08 am

Usually yes as I can only understand English. Although sometimes I do visit websites in other languages but I will need to use Google Translate.

Which languages you know?

Luca - February 2, 2020, 3:15 am

Whenever I really need to check out a foreign site i just use the little 'translate to English' button

Burnzy - February 2, 2020, 3:25 am

Doesnt have to be but i have my phone pc an pretty much everything set on english

Brainfood - February 2, 2020, 4:46 am

Only English based sites.

Linux X - February 2, 2020, 4:52 am

I visit mostly EN, RU, PL, BG websites.

Goku - February 2, 2020, 5:01 am

If the website has the content I need I just use google translator plugin. Even though I live in the Netherlands I use English more since it's easier for debugging and such.

Cooligan - February 2, 2020, 5:19 am

I'll sometimes dive into Russian forums just to see what they're talking about. ?

It's funny a lot of the time.

You know Russian?

Snowwy - February 2, 2020, 6:04 am

Yup. English only. I don't really understand any other language completely.

Jam1e - February 2, 2020, 6:08 am

I mainly visit English sites, but I don't go out of my way to avoid sites in other languages. For the most part, Google Translate does a good enough job to not be able to tell the difference anyway.

Not always, for example in one website I didn't put translate, it did on this own, and the word "change" it was translated as the change when you buy something from the store and you pay bigger price, I don't know if it is understandable what I said.

In English "change" has 2 meanings but in my language has 2 different words.

Ah, yeah I understand what you mean.

Thinking about it, I have encountered similar issues before when translating Japanese to English.

The translate can be useful, but certainly cannot be relied on just yet.

Exalted - February 2, 2020, 6:43 am

I don't care about the language of the website as long as it has the content I need.

Geralt - February 2, 2020, 6:59 am

Yes, unless I'm buying something on local version of ebay

FalconExploit - February 2, 2020, 10:11 am

I go to all kinds of sites

Citoea - February 2, 2020, 11:50 am

Well it depends what I am researching. If I am making a presentation for my German classes then I will most probably search for German websites. Or if I am searching for something related to my country then I will search for such websites.

But most of the time I open English websites.

Zinx™ - February 2, 2020, 3:56 pm

Personally I do use just US sites

Rsynced - February 2, 2020, 11:27 pm

I use google translate and use a few foreign websites for various purposes.

Astrogen - February 3, 2020, 2:45 am

Most of the time I visit English websites only. But I also browse some local sites using local language but mostly the interface is in English. Sometimes, I visit sites with language that I don't understand and just use google translate on them.

A + - February 3, 2020, 5:49 am

I just use a translator for sites that I cannot read.

ETH - February 3, 2020, 6:12 am

I visit the site which has resource not a matter what language and using translator on the thrashed device

funtela - February 4, 2020, 10:39 am

I don't think I visit any non-English website frequently

Exe - February 5, 2020, 3:32 am

?ystem - February 8, 2020, 1:18 pm

I mostly just view English sites for whatever I'm doing just to save time. It's been a long, long time since I've really had the need to converse in another language, so naturally the knowledge is iffy at best these days, and I can avoid frustration with trying to translate.

More power to the many people on this forum that fluently speak, read and write in other languages than their primary, you're true masters.

Bluffer - February 8, 2020, 1:19 pm

No way. Translation and Manipulation is so easy now why not, the gems and time saved by translating spreadsheets to see what they are would be uncountable by now. Especially German and Russian!

SIM-4577611 - February 9, 2020, 5:18 pm

Yes actually just this week I was on a website written in a foreign language but I translated the entire page and read it. It's cool when you can do that on certain pages.

I am visiting also a lot of Russian websites, as they have lot of interesting content going on there.

Bastille - February 13, 2020, 10:36 am

Usually browsing on french websites, except for computing/hacking/security contents

When I'm looking for fixing an issue I spend like 2 minutes on french websites, then I'm bored of shitty contents and I move to English websites ?
