

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Pen Testing Courses

hairypets - February 4, 2020, 10:10 am

Hello!

I'm currently undertaking a Bsc degree in Cyber Security however it's not testing my full potential. I'm looking to take the OSCP later so I'm looking for training / courses to extend my knowledge and practice in Pen Testing.

Do you guys have any recommendations for any courses that can help further my skills alongside my degree? Some of the Udemy (warez disallowed) courses seem alright but again any advice would help a lot.

Cheers

POLY MATH - February 4, 2020, 7:17 pm

Just start with HackTheBox.eu

It's amazing for real life pentesting. Some boxes can be a little CTF-like.

hairypets - February 6, 2020, 1:13 am

(Feb 4, 2020 08:17 PM)POLY MATH Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just start with HackTheBox.eu

It's amazing for real life pentesting. Some boxes can be a little CTF-like.

Thank you for the reply!

I've been slowly going through HTB too :) It's great!

Mudge. - February 6, 2020, 12:40 pm

(Feb 4, 2020 08:17 PM)POLY MATH Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just start with HackTheBox.eu

It's amazing for real life pentesting. Some boxes can be a little CTF-like.

Honestly, if you're just starting this isn't ideal.

Grab a Udemy (warez disallowed) course by Heath Adams

POLY MATH - February 6, 2020, 1:18 pm

(Feb 6, 2020 01:40 PM)Mudge. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Honestly, if you're just starting this isn't ideal.

Grab a Udemy (warez disallowed) (warez disallowed) course by Heath Adams TheCyberMentor is amazing. But just getting started is so vague.

If your new new. You may want to look into certifications like CompTIA Sec+.

You'll have to find really get to know someone's knowledge to suggest where to start.

I admit my answer was a little biased though.

DarkHarvester - February 6, 2020, 3:34 pm

(Feb 4, 2020 11:10 AM)hairypets Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hello!

I'm currently undertaking a Bsc degree in Cyber Security however it's not testing my full potential. I'm looking to take the OSCP later so I'm looking for training / courses to extend my knowledge and practice in Pen Testing.

Do you guys have any recommendations for any courses that can help further my skills alongside my degree? Some of the Udemy (warez disallowed) (warez disallowed) courses seem alright but again any advice would help a lot.

Cheers

As someone that is interested in going to school for the same thing, is it really not that challenging? I hope that I can learn quite a bit when I go to school.