

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Eizouken ni wa Te wo Dasu na! - Discussion

Megane - February 9, 2020, 2:49 pm

Hello, I don't see a discussion thread on this anime, so I thought I'd create one.

Quote:Midori Asakusa sees the world a bit differently. Always having her nose in a sketchbook, Asakusa draws detailed landscapes and backgrounds of both the world around her and the one within her boundless imagination. Even the simple act of doodling on a wall evolves into an emergency repair on the outer hull of her spaceship. She is only brought back to reality by her best friend Sayaka Kanamori. The pair are stark opposites, with Asakusa's childlike wonder contrasted by Kanamori's calculated approach to life.

After a chance encounter where the two "save" the young model Tsubame Misuzaki from her overprotective bodyguard, a connection instantly sparks between Asakusa and Misuzaki, as both share an intense passion for art and animation. Whereas Asakusa is interested in backgrounds and settings, Misuzaki loves drawing the human form. Sensing a money-making opportunity, Kanamori suggests that they start an animation club, which they disguise as a motion picture club since the school already has an anime club. Thus begins the trio's journey of producing animation that will awe the world.

From the brilliant mind of Masaaki Yuasa, Eizouken ni wa Te wo Dasu na! is a love letter to animation, wildly creative in its approach, and a testament to the potential of the medium.

You can find more about the anime, here:

https://myanimelist.net/anime/39792/Eizouken_ni_wa_Te_wo_Dasu_na

It's highly recommended to keep your posts in spoilers, but there is no way to enforce that since this is a discussion thread and anything goes. Don't get upset if you read something and you aren't up-to-date with the current episodes.

As for me, I shall use spoiler codes for the first three episodes. After that, I will post without them.

Megane - February 23, 2020, 2:23 pm

Episode 8 was really good. Probably my favorite episode so far. I haven't been liking this anime too much but the change of pace in this episode kept me interested. Usually, when I watch this I get bored very easily and end up hating watching this.

I didn't see anything wrong with this episode. Usually, I point stuff out but this reply is going to be fairly positive.

The majority of school anime has an episode or more about the school festival. We already knew that one was coming from the get-go of the media club, but the festival is finally here!

Mizusaki is my favorite character and I deeply enjoyed how this episode was mostly about her. I thought the animation was cool and interesting and it had bits and pieces of everyone's personality. For Mizusaki, it was the running animation and how the chopsticks were held when eating food with a specific character.

Her parents ended up going, which to her and the club was scary because of how much they were against Mizusaki being in an anime-related club. It's good to see that they are okay with her being with Kanamori and Asakusa. And I am happy that they are going to allow her to continue being in the club. Honestly, from the start, you could see they were more lenient than Mizusaki made them out to be. But I think they were purposefully like that, as the father had said at some point in the episode that he was doing it to get her motivated to do something.

The robot club parts were funny and I love how much they supported the media club enough to do things that were against school rules to get a viewing. The people enjoyed the short animation and I think this will be great because now the media club will probably get a budget. However, the student council president will still probably hate them.

I have more to say, but I'm just rambling on so see you guys next week. :)

Megane - March 17, 2020, 4:17 pm

Curious to know who likes this anime. At first, it was very promising. I find myself so bored watching this. I thought that the concept of the anime would be awesome, but instead, I find myself wanting to gouge my eyes out from boredom.

Just curious to see who likes this and who doesn't as it seems pretty popular this season.

Megane - March 23, 2020, 2:45 pm

The ending wasn't good as I was expecting it to be. I changed my rating quite a lot watching this anime. I went from around 8-7 all the way down to my final rating becoming a four.

The movie itself that they created to promote the underground shops was absolutely terrible. In no way is that going to actually bring traffic to that area. The area itself they were advertising was shown once... Ah, anyway the animation they showed was very confusing and the pacing was awful.

This anime had so much potential and the overall rating dropped slightly which I agree with.

As stated before, my final rating is 4/10. I would not recommend this anime. I had a terrible time watching it and I felt bored every episode.