

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Possibly Switching To PC Gaming

Superb - February 17, 2020, 6:46 pm

Hello everyone, I have recently been considering switching from Console Gaming (Xbox One) to PC gaming. I have found a few interesting pre built PC's in my area on Facebook Marketplace. I recently got a Dell S2716DGR monitor and the response is incredible and that's on an Xbox... I was curious to see everyone's opinion on the matter. I am not a crazy gamer I play maybe two hours a day. Although I have only ever played consoles and it's been that way since I was little. I am not sure on how the transition may be and was looking for some feedback.

335i - February 17, 2020, 6:47 pm

Switching to PC is definitely game changing

I can still be somewhat productive even while I'm gaming, just a quick alt tab and I'm back to work

Psychogenic - February 17, 2020, 6:55 pm

I second Lowkey's statement. You will not regret it and there's so much more you can do on a PC.

oRequiem - February 18, 2020, 10:09 pm

It's a really good decision.

But some games could be better on console than pc or even exclusive that might interest you.
But it's a good transition.

tacticalcatboy - February 20, 2020, 12:28 am

beware of the tryhards in cod tho, but anyways best of luck!

stupidforums - February 20, 2020, 12:34 am

PC is better just because of the fact that you can mod the shit out of most games. And if you can't mod it, it's probably not very fun.

tina300 - February 20, 2020, 8:26 pm

Pc is way better but im too stupid to build a better one and spend my money on other things.

device - February 21, 2020, 6:31 am

PC is awesome, you can also use XBOX controller if you are use to it.

Consoles are great but you will always be more limited than on PC, maybe check the next-gen consoles but i'm sure PC will dominate.

Herbert - February 21, 2020, 6:40 am

There are only 3 reasons to stay on console.

- Console exclusives
- You play a lot with friends
- No funds to buy a new PC

PC outperforms console all day.

Manks - February 21, 2020, 6:43 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:40 AM)Herbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There are only 3 reasons to stay on console.

- Console exclusives
- You play a lot with friends
- No funds to buy a new PC

PC outperforms console all day.

I enjoy the comfort of laying in my bed, and though I do perform better on Mouse and Keyboard (for fps games) I very much prefer using a controller for most games.

(Some games have some of the shobbiest gunplay for console; IE Resistance.

A high quality fps game would be Apex Legends; if every game had gunplay like that game, oof.)

Herbert - February 21, 2020, 6:45 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:43 AM)Manks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I enjoy the comfort of laying in my bed, and though I do perform better on Mouse and Keyboard (for fps games) I very much prefer using a controller for most games.

(Some games have some of the shobbiest gunplay for console; IE Resistance.

A high quality fps game would be Apex Legends; if every game had gunplay like that game, oof.)

You can connect your controller to pc with a bluetooth usb dongle and have the same experience.

Manks - February 21, 2020, 6:45 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:45 AM)Herbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can connect your controller to pc with a bluetooth usb dongle and have the same experience.

Same experience had a higher cost

I have the Steam console, works pretty well.

Herbert - February 21, 2020, 6:45 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:45 AM)Manks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Same experience had a higher cost
Dongles go for around 40 cents.

Manks - February 21, 2020, 6:46 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:45 AM)Herbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Dongles go for around 40 cents.

And the PC? Is that not part of it?

I'd have to pay roughly $600 MORE dollars (on top of console) to play Apex Legends well.

Herbert - February 21, 2020, 6:49 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:46 AM)Manks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) And the PC? Is that not part of it?

I'd have to pay roughly $600 MORE dollars (on top of console) to play Apex Legends well.

Higher expenses comes with better quality, unlike console where you're paying more than what it's worth. not having counted PS3.

And most games are locked at 30 fps.

Manks - February 21, 2020, 6:51 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:49 AM)Herbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) higher expenses comes with better quality, unlike console where you're paying more than what it's worth. not having counted PS3.

And most games are locked at 30 fps.

Gaming is a hobby, not an job. You don't need the best equipment to have fun.

Herbert - February 21, 2020, 6:53 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:51 AM)Manks Wrote: CITE Gaming is a hobby, not an job. You don't need the best equipment to have fun.

There are different builds, besides you can do more on a computer than you can on a console.

Also revert back to my first statement, if money really is an issue.

Quote:No funds to buy a new PC

Natas - February 21, 2020, 6:54 am

This is my life to the fullest.

I use to not play pc then my xbox one broke. I left it on for like 7 months straight because it was what I used for all my streaming apps and between me my gf and my son we had it on 24/7 it eventually died and wouldn't turn on I think it shorted out or something I tried replacing the power block but it didnt fix it. I upgraded to a roku tv and been playing games on my pc its pretty fun I have gotton into modding recently and been playing a bunch of skyrim mods its almost like a dlc or a different story its pretty awesome honestly

NoError - February 22, 2020, 5:56 am

Yea from Console to PC is a great decision. Never really liked anything as much as PC gaming.

Primo - February 26, 2020, 11:24 pm

Switching was the best decision I could of made when it came to gaming. When you see the possibilities that PC gaming has, you'll realise how limited consoles actually are.

Elcolo1 - March 4, 2020, 10:34 pm

I still prefer my lovely ps4

?nxy - March 5, 2020, 4:44 am

I love my Xbox but I mu Future will probably be more on the pc

Angela White - March 5, 2020, 4:58 am

I used to be a huge Xbox fanboy, I was doing software dev work when i was like 16 and my friend recommended building a PC for that, one I did that, he bought me Black Ops to play with him on Steam. after playing a couple games on that PC i sold my Xbox and haven't touched a console since.

spiral - March 5, 2020, 9:15 am

(Feb 21, 2020 07:46 AM)Manks Wrote: CITE And the PC? Is that not part of it?

I'd have to pay roughly $600 MORE dollars (on top of console) to play Apex Legends well.

if you have a tight budget by some second hand components, much greater value for money

Lightz_ - September 29, 2020, 1:19 pm

Having a gaming pc shouldn't be a consideration against any console. Gaming pc is a must have.

Free Kurdistan - September 29, 2020, 1:20 pm

It's a must man, it will change your life when you go from 60hz to 144+ Hz monitor and a smooth PC. It's a point of no return.

Doom - September 30, 2020, 12:15 am

I switched to PC a few years ago and have never looked back since, It's so much better than console gaming in my opinion and even if you really struggle using keyboard and mouse you can just use a controller instead on most games.

FrostyNugs - September 30, 2020, 12:46 pm

Trust me make the leap to PC you will not regret it at first it will be weird with the mouse and keyboard but once you get use to it you will never look back. Also because you can upgrade PC part by part games will look better as your PC specs get better that is where the console limited cause it's non-up gradable

Chevy - September 30, 2020, 12:49 pm

Honestly PC gaming is something I never thought I'd actually go through with, but here I am. A PC gamer. You should go for it!

alae - September 30, 2020, 2:42 pm

Good for you , this is a great decision because PC is always the best for gaming !

Skateboard - September 30, 2020, 4:47 pm

I've never played PC games and I don't play console but I have played it before.

Nate - September 30, 2020, 6:20 pm

I would make the change, I recently made the change. The results are amazing. It just seems i move way faster, as well with response times.

Could just be me imaging though.

Zencypher - October 1, 2020, 12:14 pm

i have both a gaming PC and a PS4 and i use the PS4 more often for the fact that my friends are online on ps4 more frequent.

junnar1968 - October 1, 2020, 1:26 pm

I have lots of games in PC.

But for me nothing will replace my PS4 Pro.

The benefits of playing console games for me is the graphics.

My PC is not strong enough to run some newer games unlike my PS4 Pro.