What a fuckin joke...

I'm pretty sure the only vouch for the product before you buying is fake. Perfects has been friends with Exe for years. Something tells me if you were to report this contract to Omni you'd be able to discover no transaction actually took place.

Everyone knows Exe is not a developer, kid can't code at all, yet he claims he made it then "sent the source code to his friend to finish": <https://i.imgur.com/UFFvAjT.png>

What a load of bullshit.

Exe continues to avoid announcing who the actual dev is.

I have doubts that this product actually even exists at this point with all the dicking around Exe is doing. Even if it is real, what a train-wreck of an operation these fools are running. Why would anyone in their right mind deal with them after seeing the way Exe talks to you.

Dorrance - February 27, 2020, 12:17 pm

Big oof in the chat, I hope there is a solution with this.

On behalf of my client today I'm here to present our side of this story:

Alright as my behalf on this dispute. I am currently working with the developer to fix our issues, and yes Perfects is my friend and he has also been buying off me from Crypter, Marketing, etc we are also on a different forum that's why and NO I didnt ask him to vouch for me or whatever he actually bought my first month. My developer havent even been online from time to time and now we finally have the time to talk and fix this current issues. The program exist and it was made from scratch. My dev was behind of coding but I was behind all the mastermind of all features and what to do. I am currently Limited Access I cant post on the thread to protect myself about this dispute! Here's the proof my dev is been gone and havent been responsive as much <https://imgur.com/a/6SpP9Dz>

Please refrain from posting anything about my clients side of the story as he is hurt by the limitations and he looks forward to resolving this matter and moving on with his life.

I mean, more respect for how I behaved? Why don't you send it to me, and now everything is resolved or you give me back the money or you give me your face, you are now hiding in another user to do nothing, sadly you want to steal me, making false reviews because if it had been true I I would have been sending the exploit, because I paid you first than perfect.

Hi,

Im only his attorney for this matter. he has hired me to defend him against these allegations. I have spoke to him in a private setting and have come to the understanding he will resolve this when the owner of this forum decides to remove the restrictions on his account, as he informed me he cannot reply nor pm you on here to solve this matter. We wish you the best until that time will come rather sooner then later.

Greetings to all of you, my friends. I opened the hackforums account to clarify this topic.

I've known this guy for, like, three weeks. I spoke to him in detail before I did the project. I made a deal with him, and I told him to make a point for me. That's how I was going to give him a certain amount of money.

A week ago, he told RDP to set up the software, and I refused. I suspected he didn't send me a certain amount of money. I didn't know him well.

I apologize to all the friends for the misunderstanding.

I'm ashamed of you in the name of the people here.

This guy's a bad person, never trust this guy again. I'm the only encoder now. This guy should be banned.

This man who sells for me is a scammer.

This guy's not going to give you a refund. He blocked me from discord.

Could be true.

It still doesn't explain why Exe has been lying though. In the OP's original images Exe tells numerous lies. He even claims to be a developer of the product, claiming that he handed the source code off to his friend to put the final touches on the tool before releasing it. He then claims he no longer has access to the source code.

1. Exe is not a developer. The dude can't code.
2. If we ignore #1, why would he delete the source code after handing it off to his friend to finish? "Ok, I've developed this application. Here's the source for you to put the final touches on, I'm going to delete it now."

Source codes aren't just things that disappear as you allow others to work on it.

You were the receiving end of the payment and top of that you basically are ruining my profile and how I am as a user. You told me that you coded this from scratch but you didn't. You leeches all the sourced from other sources such as Razor Crypter and many more. Give the fucking subscription or refund his money this is my first and last comment on this dispute.

But you told your customer that you coded it. Does that mean you also leached off of other sources such as Razor Crypter?

This type EXE is a real fake now, create a fake profile with the name of PROTON to make complaints to this profile, and it is a totally false profile !!!! the administrators who take letters on the subject this type of EXE stole me does not want to return my money and is becoming the victim without reasons, is stealing in the forum. EXE is fake and thief

What more proof do they need to take measures with this type of EXE, has not solved anything, and says nothing, solves nothing, or gives an example with this type or there will be more scamming without remedy.

Let's see how much lies you're going to lie to the people here. Admit you're a scam man, you're a son of a bitch. EXE You didn't send me any money. If you did, people wouldn't have come in here and called you a scam man. You're a bad man, man.

hi man still looking for you to middle man all my future deals here.

lulzcat - March 7, 2020, 2:45 am

Sorry for your troubles here OP, what a pain in the ass. From experience the whole "in class right now" or "I had class" is such a common fucking excuse that I for one am very tired of hearing.

Hope the mofo refunds you your money, regardless if he provided the service or not. The absolute fuck around should warrant a refund. Not to mention what kind of half-assed developers are these that they don't even use a source repository and just send source code changes back and forward to each other.

People on this forum need to learn how to conduct business before they fuck with the wrong person.

You're still held liable. You were selling the product. The contract is with you. Therefore it falls on you to correct things.

I lost my exe money does nothing, and remains in the forum as nothing has happened then what is the point of making contracts here if nobody does anything.

Give him a boo brating will make people think twice before dealing, if the open dispute wasn't already enough.

Because he has to deal with the admin. The rules don't go through here. HF Is Full of Kids.

I highly doubt he has a deal with Omni.

A good amount of the donations come from people who use the marketplace religiously. Why would he risk that for one kid?

There probably just isn't enough proof for staff to get involved.

Hey, Exe, I can be petty too!

Check your signature.

Open a dispute against him as well... Not that it seems to be deterring people from purchasing lol.

Read this before making another deal on the marketplace:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5873062>

"It's important to note that using Contracts is REQUIRED for any and all deals on site. If you are caught dealing on this forum without using Contracts, action will be taken against your account."

Nothing you can do unfortunately.
