Thread: How the corona virus spreads faster in Europe than In Thailand?

crixus - March 8, 2020, 3:11 pm

Here can see in Europe countries such as Spain, UK, Sweden etc hundrends
And In Thailand only 40.

Thailand is more touristic country than those in Europe annd it should be more it costs only around $70 to go from china to thailand 400$ to go to euroep countries.

that are much more Chinese people going to Thailand than EU you think thailand hide the real number?

Most likely they just don't have the resources to test enough people and if patients aren't showing really bad symptoms they are just sent home

Thailand does officially have more than 4000 "suspected" cases after all

May sound kinda cringey but does any one know if any one with the virus has been cured ?

I been ignoring all threads and news on it really because it doesnt really concern me and I dont like to listen to the media.

Just wondering if any one has heard anything ?

Yes, a few people have been cured. It depends on your immune system, age, etc. A lot of people were cured by self isolation even.

Most of the people have been cured not just few. (more than 50%) and mortality rate is very low it's not scary as people might think.

No, wrong word. The virus itself has no cure, you can be cured of it's symptoms and make a full recovery, effectively just combating the disease via your body's defenses (and medical attention) ?

The media completely blankets the real numbers for the scare factor.

Corona virus is a respiratory virus iirc and the deaths are only related to people above the age of 60 and people that have other diseases that will strengthen the symptoms of the virus.
